Responding in Conversation Marja-Leena Sorjonen, 2001 This book concerns particles that are used as responses in conversations It provides much needed methodological tools for analyzing the use of response particles in languages while its particular focus is Finnish The book focuses on two Finnish particles nii n and joo which in some of their central usages have yeah and yes as their closest English counterparts The two particles are discussed in a number of sequential and activity contexts including their use as answers to yes no questions and directives as responses to a stance taking by the prior speaker and in the midst of an extended telling by the co participant It will be shown how there is a fine grained division of labor between the particles having to do with the epistemic and affective character of the talk and the continuation vs closure relevance of the activity The book connects the interactional usages of the particles with what is known about their historical origins and in this fashion it is also of interest to linguists doing research on processes of grammaticalization and lexicalization Demographic Research Volume 19 Book 5 Joshua R. management of turn taking and floor holding in the negotiation of conversational activities such as repair assessments announcements reproaches and news receipts and in the keying of the tone or modality of interactional sequences
