Adolescents Talk About Reading:

Adolescents Talk about Reading Anne R. Reeves, 2004 Why do certain books captivate some adolescent readers but not others Why do some adolescents read widely while others almost never read Adolescents Talk About Reading shows that you can find answers to these questions and more by closely observing adolescents and their complex relationships with reading The book also reveals what insights occur when adolescents explain in their own words why they resist or engage with text The book centers on a study the author conducted to discover what goes on in adolescents minds as they look at text The chapters present case studies of five high school students whose stories best represent adolescents problems with reading Each case study provides a wealth of information about the student s Reading history Reading preferences and dislikes Reading attitudes and beliefs Personal reading interpretations Writing experiences You ll discover how going beyond the surface of students typical reasons for resisting or engaging with reading may lead to finding the key to each student s reading success This book will allow you to see more clearly your students own reasons for resisting or engaging with text and maximize their chances for

The Reading Lives of Teens Chin Ee Loh, 2024-11-04 In these changing times of global flows of media and technologies and reports of declining reading enjoyment researchers policymakers and educators need to engage anew with essential issues of what counts as reading what kinds of reading matter and how to support teen reading engagement in school and out of school settings Bringing together contributions from well known and emerging adolescent literacy researchers from different disciplinary perspectives this edited collection consolidates contemporary research on teens volitional print and digital reading whether in school or out of school contexts The first part of the book offers overviews of what teens are reading followed by chapters on community support on reading and new ways of researching teen reading With chapters from North America Europe Australia Asia and the Middle East the collection will offer multifaceted and complex insights into what how and why teens read in different contexts Reflection questions at the end of each chapter encourage readers to consider how the research can be applied in their own research policy and practice contexts This book will be of interest to researchers policymakers and educators who are invested in supporting adolescent engaged reading with evidence based policies and strategies

Research on Teaching and Learning with the

Literacies of Young Adolescents Kathleen F. Malu, Mary Beth Schaefer, 2015-02-01 Research on middle level education indicates that student learning at the middle level has a deep and abiding influence on post secondary opportunities and career paths As research continues to highlight the urgency of engaging middle level students in academic learning it is increasingly clear that these students multiple literacies must become a part of teaching and learning Understanding how to infuse the literacies of middle level students across classroom activities is a critical part of improving student achievement This volume in The Handbook series shares literacy research from multiple contexts and deepens our understanding of the literacies that middle level students use in and out of school This volume includes research that identifies how to best teach and learn with our increasingly diverse students The perspectives that emerge from this volume help us examine the current state of new and evolving literacies and construct a cutting edge research agenda for middle level literacy education Research reports focus on digital literacies including social networking media and games English language learners high stakes literacy tests and middle level learners specifically boys and literacy teaching and learning in middle level teacher education programs A wide range of research methods and modes are used in these reports including case studies teacher research narrative inquiry survey research and action research

Reconceptualizing the Literacies in Adolescents'

Lives Donna E. Alvermann, Kathleen A. Hinchman, David W. Moore, III, David W. Moore, Stephen F. Phelps, Diane R. Waff, 2007-07-10 Reconceptualizing the Literacies in Adolescents Lives Second Edition focuses on exploring the impact of young people s identity making practices in mediating their perceptions of themselves as readers and writers in an era of externally mandated reforms What is different in the Second Edition is its emphasis on the importance of valuing adolescents perspectives in an era of skyrocketing interest in improving literacy instruction at the middle and high school levels driven by externally mandated reforms and accountability measures A central concern is the degree to which this new interest takes into account adolescents personal social and cultural experiences in relation to literacy learning In this new edition of Reconceptualizing the Literacies in Adolescents Lives students voices and perspectives are featured front and center in every chapter Particular attention is given throughout to multiple literacies especially how information and new communication technologies are changing learning from and with text Nine of the 15 chapters are new all other chapters are thoroughly updated The volume is structured around four main themes Situating Adolescents Literacies addressing how young people use favorite texts to perform their identities how they counter school based constructions of incompetence and how they re construct their literate identities in relation to certain kinds of gendered expectations pedagogies and cultural resources Positioning Youth as Readers and Writers stressing the importance of classroom discourse cultural capital agency and democratic citizenship in mediating adolescents literate identities Mediating Practices in Young People s Literacies looking at issues of language social class race and culture in shaping how adolescents represent themselves and are represented by others and Changing Teachers Teaching Changes capturing the productive ambiguities associated with teaching urban
