New York Sketches 2004 Adrian Tomine, 2005 A portfolio of fifteen full color prints which are reproductions of ink and watercolor drawings from Adrian Tomine's sketchbook They are printed on 130 lb Cougar paper which has been accordion folded P 4 of cover What Happens When Nothing Happens Greice Schneider, 2016-06-30 Boredom and melancholy in the experience of reading Contemporary graphic novels show an interesting shift from the extraordinary to the ordinary in slice of life stories in which nothing happens Present day graphic accounts are inhabited by melancholic characters whining about the lack of meaning in life This book examines this intriguing transition and brings a historical aesthetical and narratological approach to comics in which boredom is not only a topic but also awakens a deliberate affective response in the very experience of reading This volume brings together close readings of work by Lewis Trondheim Chris Ware and Adrian Tomine With a foreword by Raphael Baroni University of Lausanne Drawing New Color Lines Monica Chiu, 2014-11-01 The global circulation of comics manga and other such visual mediums between North America and Asia produces transnational meanings no longer rooted in a separation between Asian and American Drawing New Color Lines explores the culture production and history of contemporary graphic narratives that depict Asian Americans and Asians It examines how Japanese manga and Asian popular culture have influenced Asian American comics how these comics and Asian American graphic narratives depict the look of race and how these various representations are interpreted in nations not of their production By focusing on what graphic narratives mean for audiences in North America and those in Asia the collection discusses how Western theories about the ways in which graphic narratives might successfully overturn derogatory caricatures are themselves based on contested assumptions and illustrates that the so called odorless images featured in Japanese manga might nevertheless elicit interpretations about race in transnational contexts With contributions from experts based in North America and Asia Drawing New Color Lines will be of interest to scholars in a variety of disciplines including Asian American studies cultural and literary studies comics and visual studies Drawing New Color Lines makes an exciting contribution to the rapidly expanding inquiry at the crossroads of Asian American literary studies graphic narrative studies and transnational studies Foregrounding the shifting meanings of race within across and between various national contexts the fifteen essays in Chiu's collection explore the visual dimensions of Asian American transnational literary culture with originality and offer particular insight into the complexities of production interpretation and reception for graphic narrative Pamela Thoma author of Asian American Women's Popular Literature Feminizing Genres and Neoliberal Belonging An informative smart and necessary collection Drawing New Color Lines investigates a growing and important field transnational Asian American comics with sophistication and breadth Hillary Chute author of Graphic Women Life Narrative and Contemporary Comics and Outside the Box Interviews with Contemporary Cartoonists Giant Robot, 2004 Optic Nerve Adrian Tomine, 2005 Drawn & Quarterly: Twenty-Five Years of Contemporary Cartooning, Comics, and Graphic

Novels ,2021-08-31 Drawn assembles biographies personal reminiscences and interviews with key D Q staff and curates essays by Margaret Atwood Sheila Heti Jonathan Lethem Deb Olin Unferth Heather O Neill Lemony Snicket Chris Ware and noted comics scholars D Q 25 is the rare chance to witness a literary movement in progress how a group of dedicated artists and their publisher changed the future of a century old medium Race and the Animated Bodyscape Francis M.

Agnoli,2023-04-21 Race does not exist in animation it must instead be constructed and ascribed Yet over the past few years there has been growing discourse on the intersection of these two subjects within both academic and popular circles In Race and the Animated Bodyscape Constructing and Ascribing a Racialized Asian Identity in Avatar and Korra author Francis M Agnoli introduces and illustrates the concept of the animated bodyscape looking specifically at the US television series Avatar The Last Airbender and its sequel The Legend of Korra Rather than consider animated figures as unified wholes Agnoli views them as complexes of signs made up of visual aural and narrative components that complement contradict and otherwise interact with each other in the creation of meaning Every one of these components matters as they are each the result of a series of creative decisions made by various personnel across different production processes This volume re constructs production narratives for Avatar and Korra using original and preexisting interviews with cast and crew members as well as behind the scenes material Each chapter addresses how different types of components were generated tracing their development from preliminary research to final animation In doing so this project identifies the interlocking sets of production communities behind the making of animation and thus behind the making of racialized identities Due to its illusory and constructed nature animation affords untapped opportunities to approach the topic of race in media looking beyond the role of the actor and taking into account the various factors and processes behind the production of racialized performances The analysis of race and animation calls for a holistic approach one that treats both the visual and the aural as intimately connected This volume offers a blueprint for how to approach the analysis of race and animation Asian

Jewish Women in Comics Heike Bauer, Andrea Greenbaum, Sarah Lightman, 2022-04-15 In this groundbreaking collection of essays interviews and artwork contributors draw upon a rich treasure trove of Jewish women's comics to explore the representation of Jewish women's bodies and bodily experience in pictorial narratives Spanning national cultural and artistic borders the essays shine a light on the significant contributions of Jewish women to comics The volume features established figures including Emil Ferris Amy Kurzweil Miriam Libicki Trina Robbins Sharon Rudahl and Ilana Zeffren alongside works by artists translated for the first time into English such as artist Rona Mor Exploring topics of family motherhood miscarriages queerness gender and Judaism illness war Haredi and Orthodox family life and the lingering impact of the Holocaust the contributors present unique at times intensely personal insights into how Jewishness intersects with other forms of identity and identification In doing so the volume deepens our understanding of Jewish women s experiences

The Children of 1965 Min Hyoung Song, 2013-04-15 Since the 1990s a new cohort of Asian American writers has garnered critical and popular attention Many of its members are the children of Asians who came to the United States after the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1965 lifted long standing restrictions on immigration This new generation encompasses writers as diverse as the graphic novelists Adrian Tomine and Gene Luen Yang the short story writer Nam Le and the poet Cathy Park Hong Having scrutinized more than one hundred works by emerging Asian American authors and having interviewed several of these writers Min Hyoung Song argues that collectively these works push against existing ways of thinking about race even as they demonstrate how race can facilitate creativity Some of the writers eschew their identification as ethnic writers while others embrace it as a means of tackling the uncertainty that many people feel about the near future In the literature that they create a number of the writers that Song discusses take on pressing contemporary matters such as demographic change environmental catastrophe and the widespread sense that the United States is in national decline
