Adult Education And The State:

Adult Education and the State Peter Jarvis, 2005-06-21 Adult education has frequently assumed a political role in society and also has itself been regarded as a social movement This book however is the first systematic attempt to analyse it from the perspective of political theory The author locates the education of adults within current political theory something which has become even more relevant since the Conservative government of the UK has adopted an interventionist approach to education Peter Jarvis starts from a historical perspective examining the relationship between adult education and civil society and exploring theories of the state He discusses the concept of democracy and shows that there are a variety of different forms with which the education of adults might be related The idea of citizenship is also examined and it is suggested that the education of adults might be regarded as a citizenship right which is being lost to all citizens as a result of current government policies Peter Jarvis also looks at the relationship between liberal adult education and a civilised society suggesting that its provision is one of the symbols that a society is moving on the long journey towards creating a civilised society The final chapter illustrates the existence of utopian thought in radical adult education

The Relation of the State to Adult Education World Association for Adult Education, 1930 Adult Learners, Adult Education And The Community Brookfield, Stephen, 1984-06-01

Adults are continually learning outside of conventional education frameworks acquiring new skills and knowledge in a range of community settings Stephen Brookfield explores the extent and quality of this informal independent learning and the ways in which adult educators can work with independent adult learners to support and enhance their learning The State, Civil Society and the Citizen Michał Bron, Paula Guimarães, Rui Vieira de Castro, 2009 This book contributes to the setting out of a new better informed and complex basis for discussions about the relationships between the State the civil society and the citizen in distinct European countries and regions It will be useful to researchers in the field of adult education as well as social scientists interested in topics related to civil society such as NGOs social economists and practitioners concerned with the trends that are forcing adult education to recontextualise its aims and practices Report to the State Board of Education on the Governance of Adult Education Illinois State Board of Education (1973-).
