Volunteer Work, Informal Learning and Social Action Fiona Duguid,Karsten Mündel,Daniel Schugurensky,2013-06-12 Since most research on work focuses on paid work and most literature on education concentrates on schools it is not surprising that studies on the relations between work and learning emphasize the relations between paid employment and organized education This unique book deals with an area that has been rarely covered in the literature on work and education the connections between volunteer work and informal learning Through a variety of examples ranging from the Red Cross to teacher labourers from cooperatives to social housing and from participatory democracy to environmental social movements this volume examines the learning dimension of volunteer work in different contexts It also considers the special case of volunteerism among recent immigrants The case studies analyze three basic types of voluntary organizations those providing social services representing local communities and mobilizing for social change The chapters include profiles of the actual work their members do and detailed accounts of the learning practices they are engaged in during their work and the impact of such learning on their personal and professional development The concluding chapter offers a comparative analysis practical recommendations and steps for further research

Local Volunteering, Adult Learning and Social Change in the Philippines Chris Millora,2025-07-10 Based on long term ethnographic fieldwork this book explores the learning and literacy dimensions of local volunteering for social change in the Philippines It tells the story of youth and adult volunteers who experience vulnerabilities yet play central roles in local development efforts in housing and sexual health. Why do people who themselves experience vulnerability volunteer to help others? And what are their learning experiences in the process? In its unique application of a literacy lens to the study of volunteering, the book unravels how marginalised groups, often seen as thankful receivers, re-use texts, words and labels to re-define their roles in shaping social change and for whose benefit. Chris Millora provides an in-depth look into the volunteers' everyday activities such as delivering community health classes, filling out donor forms and applying for government approvals. In doing so, this book reveals how volunteers' voices and agency were constrained to fit a certain bureaucratic way of working. It offers powerful case studies on how global development agendas such as value for money, upskilling and professionalisation through bureaucratic literacies impact the experiences of volunteers at the grassroots level. Arguing that literacy and volunteering could enhance inequalities within groups, this book calls for a renewed focus on the role that power and identities play both in adult youth literacy and volunteering research.
