outlines an approach for performing advance contract planning conducting contract negotiations and administering contracts useful when planning for the management of the contracting process throughout the contracting cycle negotiating a contract that protects the interest of all contracting parties and ensuring successful contractor performance The book includes a Government Procurement Corruption Wall of Shame that illustrates the myriad perils and stumbling blocks such as conflicts of interest duplicity favoritism incompetence kickbacks and protests that government workers fall prey to Filled with best practices that protect you from nefarious amateurish and criminal mistakes that frequently lead to difficulties with harsh consequences the book does not end its coverage with discussions of corruption mismanagement and ineptitude but provides practical processes and strategies to diminish the negative impacts from these government contracting perils

Holtz, 2012-12-06 He who knows and knows that he knows is wise follow him ANCIENT PROVERB During a long career of public service as a government procurement and contracting official I am still surprised to find big successful corporations making the same mistakes that neophytes in government contracting make And this is particularly true in the matter of writing proposals which are the crucial element in most major procurement awards It is true enough as many suspect that the big well known company has something of an edge over the smaller lesser known company competing for any given government contract psychologically at least The typical government executives whether contracting officials or program managers tend to have a bit more faith in the ability of the large company to carry out the program successfully All things being equal then the big company is more likely to get the nod However because the large companies are well aware of that many tend to become fat dumb and happy they try to coast or rest on their laurels That is they get careless about making a strong enough case for themselves in writing their proposals And when they lose often to smaller companies they are both puzzled and outraged They have forgotten that all government procurement is a competition usually both technical and cost competition and that the little guy can win against the big guy if he tries hard enough And especially if the bigger guy is a bit careless and does not put out his best effort Monthly Catalogue, United States Public Documents ,1970 Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications United States.
