Invariance, Markedness and Distinctive Feature Analysis Yishai Tobin, 1994-12-15 This volume provides a new kind of contrastive analysis of two unrelated languages English and Hebrew based on the semiotic concepts of invariance markedness and distinctive feature theory It concentrates on linguistic forms and constructions which are remarkably different in each language despite the fact that they share the same familiar classifications and labels Tobin demonstrates how and why traditional and modern syntactic categories such as grammatical number verb tense aspect mood and voice conditionals and interrogatives etc are not equivalent across languages It is argued that these so called universal concepts function differently in each language system because they belong to distinct language specific semantic domains which are marked by different sets of semantic features The data used in this volume have been taken from a wide range of both spoken and written discourse and texts reflecting people's actual use of language presented in their relevant linguistic and situational contexts Planets for Pagans Shesso, Renna, 2014-12-01 The sky was our original calendar our original storybook the first illustrated edition the prototype GPS Beyond its pragmatic usefulness the sky was the domain of spirit traversed by deities and a place to which human souls departed Let's re-enchant it shall we Renna Shesso Impeccably researched by one of the most eclectic pagan scholars working today this book aims to reengage our fascination with the planets and stars Shesso looks at the mythology legend science and lore about the planets and most significant stars in a chapter by chapter format Included are nearly 150 diagrams and illustrations of the heavens astrological views depictions of gods and goddesses sky totems Tarot symbols star charts and more Anyone with even a vaguely pagan bent anyone with a reverence for the natural world who has ever marveled at the night sky will love this enchanted view of the planets and stars
