Dorsets War Diary:

Dorset at War Rodney Legg,1990      Dorset's War Diary Rodney Legg,2004      56th Infantry Brigade and D-Day Andrew Holborn,2010-08-12      Battle for the Bocage: Normandy 1944 Tim Saunders,2021-09-30 This WWII military study examines the combat experiences of three Allied divisions charged with spearheading the invasion of Normandy To lead the charge into France after the Normandy landings General Montgomery brought three veteran desert formations back from the Mediterranean They were the 50th Infantry and 7th Armored divisions plus 4th Armored Brigade Their task beyond the beaches was to push south to Villers Bocage with armor on the evening of D Day in order to disrupt German counter attacks on the beachhead Difficulties on 50th Division s beaches allowed time for German reinforcements to arrive in Normandy As a result 4th Armored Brigade was firmly blocked just south of Point 103 after an advance of less than five miles A major counter attack by Panzer Lehr failed as did a renewed British attempt this time by the vaunted 7th Armored Division which was halted at Tilly sur Seules From here the fighting became a progressively attritional struggle in the hedgerows of the Bocage country south of Bayeux More units were drawn into the fighting which steadily extended west Finally an opportunity to outflank the German defenses via the Caumont Gap allowed 7th Armored Division to reach Villers Bocage There then followed what the battalions of 50th Division describe as their most unpleasant period of the war in bitter fighting at often very close quarters for the next hedgerow      D-Day Landing Craft Andrew Whitmarsh,2024-05-23 This is a marvellous book The research is very thorough and it will answer all my questions RICHARD WILLIS Normandy veteran first lieutenant on LCT 898 on D Day Brings to life the planning and execution of the largest amphibious landing which the world has ever seen My grandfather would have been most impressed by this detailed research CAPTAIN WILL RAMSAY grandson of Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay Allied Naval Commander Expeditionary Force D Day one of the most decisive moments of the Second World War could not have happened without thousands of landing craft Yet their role and that of their crews has often been overlooked During a combined operation that involved aerial and naval assaults as well as amphibious landings on a vast scale more than 132 000 Allied troops landed on the Normandy beaches on 6 June 1944 Through their efforts the tide of the war turned for the final time to favour the Allies There is no overstating the contribution of the landing craft and their crews on the first day of Operation Neptune and yet it is often overlooked In D Day Landing Craft historian Andrew Whitmarsh turns his attention to these vital vessels that ensured the operation s success He describes events on each of the five Allied beaches on D Day from the perspective of landing craft landing ships and their crews He examines why there were so many different types of landing craft and how they were built over several years in both the UK and North America despite many competing war production requirements and operational demands This closely researched and well illustrated account is essential to anyone who wants to fully understand the course of D Day and the nature of Allied preparations for the campaign      Military Power Brian Holden Reid,2014-02-25 The contributors here consider the multifarious aspects of the Anglo American approach to war All the contributors are concerned to base their work on the overall historical context They explore the relationship between theory and practice in military operations The Somme Robin Prior,Trevor Wilson,2016-04-26 Published in a new edition on the centenary of the seismic battle this book provides the definitive account of the Somme and assigns responsibility to military and political leaders for its catastrophic outcome A magisterial piece of scholarship It is a model of historical research and should do much to further our understanding of the Great War and how it was fought Contemporary Review Revisionist history at its best Library Journal starred review A major addition to the literature on the military history of the Great War Jay Winter Dorset Brothers at War Jessica Christian,2017-10-15 In 1914 three brothers started their First World War service with the Dorset Yeomanry Only one would survive This is the story of their wartime experiences told largely in their own words Codenamed Dorset Peter Jacobs,2014-07-02 This gripping new history tells the little known story of one of the most courageous men to have served with the newly formed Commandos and SOE during the Second World War It is a story of extreme courage and a revealing portrait of a man who ultimately gave his life to the liberation of France Ogden Smith was amongst the first to volunteer for the newly formed Commandos he took part in the daring raid on Bardia on the North African Coast and fought in the heroic rearguard action during the British evacuation of Crete In 1942 he transferred to the SOE and joined the elite Small Scale Raiding Force to carry out raids across the Channel He then volunteered for a new clandestine group known as the Jedbugs whose mission was to parachute into enemy occupied France in the aftermath of D Day to link up with the French Resistance In July 1944 under the cover of his codename Dorset Major Colin Ogden Smith parachuted deep behind enemy lines as the leader of Team Francis Three weeks later he was dead killed in action fighting alongside his French comrades so that others could make their escape Seventy years on the French community still remember the gallant major Anglais As featured on BBC Radio Lincolnshire and the Lincolnshire Echo Dorset Anthony Wilcox,2002 The D-Day Landing on Gold Beach Andrew Holborn,2015-09-24 The Normandy landings of 6 June 1944 across five sectors of the French coast Utah Omaha Gold Juno and Sword constituted the largest amphibious invasion in history This study analyses in depth the preparations and implementation of the D Day landing on Gold Beach by XXX Corps Historians have tended to dismiss the landing on Gold Beach as straightforward but the evidence points to a different reality Armour supported the infantry landing and prior bombing was intended to weaken German defences however the bulk of the bombing landed too far inland and many craft foundered in difficult conditions at sea It was the tenacity of the assault units and the flexibility of the follow up units which enabled the Gold landing to secure the right flank of the British Army in Normandy Using detailed primary evidence from The National Archives and the Imperial War Museum this volume provides a substantial assessment of the background to the landing on Gold and analyses the events of D Day in the wider context of the Normandy Campaign Mysterious Dorset Rodney Legg,1998 The Churchill Crocodile Tim Saunders,Richard Hone,2024-05-30 The British Army started the development of flame throwers in

1938 but progress was slow and interest was side lined after Dunkirk while the army reequipped Investment in a flame throwing tank only returned to the agenda thanks to interest by General Percy Hobart when he developed funnies for 79th armored Division and the concept gained the support of General Sir Alan Brooke 141 The Buffs Regiment RAC had been converted to Churchill Tanks at the end of 1941 and in early 1944 they were earmarked for another change of role to the Crocodile conversion of the new Mk VII Churchill tank This flame throwing system was secret and started to arrive with the regiment in April 1944 By D Day only one squadron was equipped and trained with space on the landing craft only available for two troops to land in support of 50th Division The rest of the regiment arrived by the end of June and were in action with various formations across the front There followed a period of misuse by those they supported and learning on the job by the regiment s squadrons but by the middle of the campaign a clear doctrine for the use of the Crocodile had emerged and they were in great demand

A Magnificent Disaster David Bennett,2008-07-08 Reveals much of what history has tended to gloss over should be a must read for all who have an interest in this operation Airborne Quarterly After Normandy the most spectacular Allied offensive of World War II was Operation Market Garden which planned to join three divisions of paratroopers dropped behind German lines with massive armored columns breaking through the front The object was to seize a crossing over the Rhine to outflank the heartland of the Third Reich and force a quick end to the war The operation utterly failed of course as the 1st British Airborne was practically wiped out the American 82nd and 101st Airborne Divisions became tied down in vicious combat for months and the vaunted armored columns were foiled at every turn by improvisational German defenses Some have called the battle Hitler s last victory In this work many years in the making David Bennett puts forward a balanced and comprehensive account of the British American Polish Canadian and German actions as well as the strategic background of the operation in a way not yet done He shows for example that rather than a bridgehead over the Rhine Montgomery s ultimate aim was to flank the Ruhr industrial area from the north The book also deals as never before with the key role of all three Corps of British Second Army not just Brian Horrocks central XXX Corps For the first time we learn the dramatic untold story of how a single company of Canadian engineers achieved the evacuation of 1st Airborne s survivors back across the Rhine when all other efforts had failed Also revealed is the scandal of how Polish Gen Sosabowski was treated by the British military authorities and how the operation would have failed at the outset but for the brilliant soldiery of the two American airborne divisions Respectfully nodding to A Bridge Too Far and other excellent works on Market Garden the author has interviewed survivors walked the ground and performed prodigious archival research to increase our understanding of the battle from the actions of the lowliest soldier to the highest commander Allied and German

A Fractured Landscape of Modernity J. Wilkes,2014-01-21 This book uses the contradictions fractures and coincidences of a twentieth century rural landscape to explore new methods of writing place beyond new nature writing In doing so it opens up new ways of reading modernist artists and writers such as Vanessa Bell Mary Butts and Paul Nash

Soldier The Island Tim Saunders, 2008-03-05 Having fought their way up fifty miles of Hell s Highway and through Nijmegen XXX Corps was just ten miles from Arnhem and the 1st British Airborne Division Here it found itself on an island of flat land between the Waal at Nijmegen and the Rhine at Arnhem The situation was increasingly bad with the remainder of II SS Panzer Corps in the area and German counter attacks on Hell s Highway preventing the Allies applying their material superiority The Guards Armoured and then 43rd Wessex Infantry Division took turns to lead before reaching the Rhine opposite the paratroopers in the Oosterbeek Perimeter Attempts to cross the Rhine by the Polish Paras and the Dorset Regiment had little success but meanwhile the guns of XXX Corps ensured the survival of the Perimeter After some desperate fighting on the island 43rd Wessex Division evacuated just two thousand members of the elite Airborne Division who had landed eight days earlier

Australia's Few and the Battle of Britain Kristen Alexander, 2015-04-30 During the summer and autumn of 1940 the Germans launched their Luftwaffe campaign to gain superiority over the RAF especially Fighter Command They were not successful and this defeat marked a turning point in the Allies favour This is the story of eight Australian fighter pilots engaged in the Battle of Britain the first major battle of World War II or any war fought entirely in the air Jack Kennedy Stuart Walch Dick Glyde Ken Holland Pat Hughes Bill Millington John Crossman and Des Sheen only one of them came home A story we take for granted here told afresh with insight and empathy Professor Peter Stanley UNSW

Canberra In telling the stories of some of the Australians who flew in the Battle of Britain Kristen Alexander has combined academic rigour with compelling personal detail She has demonstrated that the unknowns of the Battle are as fascinating as those who gained celebrity status This is a book for those who know much about what happened in 1940 and those who don't Geoff Simpson Trustee Battle of Britain Memorial Trust The lives of eight Australian fighter pilots from backyard to cockpit and beyond lovingly and expertly told Andy Wright Aircrew Book Review West Country Regiments on the Somme Tim Saunders, 2004-09-19 Previous works have concentrated on the Pals in Britain's northern towns and cities This book seeks to explore the little appreciated part in the Battle of the Somme played by the Regular and Volunteer Service battalions of two small West Country regiments the Devonshire Regiment and the Dorset Regiment These two regiments had five battalions in action on the first day of the battle and were represented in most of the significant attacks during the three and half months of the 1916 The reader will be able to form a clear picture of the battle's development as a whole through the eyes of Westcountry soldiers who fought on the Somme
