Dot.bomb David Kuo,2002 ValueAmerica com was supposed to do for e commerce what Wal Mart did for retail blow the competition out of the water Entire multinational retail corporations were supposed to fall to the ultimate one stop shop on the web Led by Craig Winn a true marketing genius the company was a dot com pioneer backed by power players like Microsoft co founder Paul Allen and FedEx chairman Fred Smith But it didn t happen In less than a year the share price had crashed and the company had haemorrhaged over 200 million This is the inside story of e commerce s greatest debacle to date a cautionary tale of corporate over reaching Business 2.0 ,2001 Strategy Changes and Internet Firm Survival Bin Wang,2004 Toward a Metatheory of Economic Bubbles: Socio-Political and Cultural Perspectives N. Communication Theory David Holmes, 2005-03-15 This is a very clear and concise summary of media studies present and future There is no other book that can both be used as a teaching tool and can help scholars organize their thinking about new media as this book can Steve Jones University of Chicago This book offers an introduction to communication theory that is appropriate to our post broadcast interactive media environment The author contrasts the first media age of broadcast with the second media age of interactivity Communication Theory argues that the different kinds of communication dynamics found in cyberspace demand a reassessment of the methodologies used to explore media as well as new understandings of the concepts of interaction and community virtual communities and broadcast communities The media are examined not simply in terms of content but also in terms of medium and network forms Holmes also explores the differences between analogue and digital cultures and between cyberspace and virtual reality The book serves both as an upper level textbook for New Media courses and a good general guide to understanding the sociological complexities of the modern communications environment

Organizing Uncertainty Gina Neff, 2004 The privatization of risk is not the sole mechanism driving the increasing ambiguity in modern economic life Organizational and institutional forces work with individual level processes to create new boundaries of risk and to encourage entrepreneurial behavior This research has implications for understanding the change in work and organizations within post industrial settings the role of individual risk taking within high technology companies the social factors shaping economic phenomena and how media industries emerge

No-collar Andrew Ross, 2004 While the internet bubble has burst the New Economy that the internet produced is still with us along with the myth of a workplace built around more humane notions of how people work and spend their days in offices No Collar is the only close study of New Economy workplaces in their heyday Andrew Ross a renowned writer and scholar of American intellectual and social life spent eighteen months deep inside Silicon Alley in residence at two prominent New Economy companies Razorfish and 360hiphop and interviewed a wide range of industry employees in other cities to write this remarkable book Maverick in their organizations and permissive in their culture these workplaces offered personal freedoms and rewards that were unheard of in corporate America Employees feared they may never again enjoy such an irresistible work environment Yet for every apparent benefit there appeared to be a hidden cost 70 hour workweeks a lack of managerial protection an oppressive shouldering of risk by employees an illusory sense of power sharing and no end of emotional churning The industrialization of bohemia encouraged employees to think outside the box but also allowed companies to claim their most free and creative thoughts and ideas In these workplaces Andrew Ross encountered a new kind of industrial personality and emerged with a sobering lesson Be careful what you wish for When work becomes sufficiently humane we tend to do far too much of it and it usurps an unacceptable portion of our lives He concludes that we should not have to choose between a personally gratifying and a just workplace we should strive to enjoy both Author note Andrew Ross is Professor in the American Studies program at New York University A writer for
