Asceticism and Exegesis in Early Christianity Hans-Ulrich Weidemann, 2013-03-13 From the beginning many of the early Christian communities led an ascetic lifestyle although a good number of New Testament texts do not seem suitable for justifying radical ascetic and encratite practice The question thus arises how the different forms of asceticism could be justified on the basis of those scriptures The articles of the volume focus on the interpretation and application of New Testament texts in various ascetic milieus and in the works of several early Christian authors and on the reception history of New Testament texts either supporting or resisting an ascetic relecture

Of Widows and Meals Reta Halteman Finger, 2007-05-27 Though community has become a common byword in the contemporary Western church the practice of communal sharing has effectively fallen by the wayside Unfortunately it is often the poor who are left wanting because we no longer come together Reta Halteman Finger finds a solution to this modern problem by learning from the ancient Mediterranean Christian culture of community In the earliest Jerusalem church in holding the responsibility for preparing and serving communal meals women were given a place of honor With the table fellowship and goods sharing of the early church Luke says there were no needy persons among them Acts 4 34 Finger thoroughly examines this agape meal tradition challenging traditional interpretations of the community of goods in the Jerusalem church and proving that the communal sharing lasted for hundreds of years longer than previously assumed Of Widows and Meals begins a discussion of need in community that can revolutionize the contemporary church s interaction with the world at large
