materials and labor for the boatbuilders across the river in Cincinnati. The fine white sand beaches became a tourist mecca drawing the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR) reunion in 1898. Floods, pollution, and a series of locks for river navigation destroyed the beaches, but Dayton continued to thrive. The Great Flood of 1937 devastated nearly half of the town and time rendered many of its businesses obsolete. Bowed but unbeaten, Dayton struggled to recover. In 1982, a flood wall was built to protect the town, and today the city's prime location along the Ohio River is a draw for redevelopment.

To Serve My Country, to Serve My Race Brenda L. Moore, 1997-08-01

I would have climbed up a mountain to get on the list to serve overseas. We were going to do our duty. Despite all the bad things that happened, America was our home. This is where I was born. It was where my mother and father were. There was a feeling of wanting to do your part. Gladys Carter, member of the 6888th Central Postal Directory, was part of the 6888th Central Postal Directory, the first United States Women's Army Corps unit composed of African American women to serve overseas. While African American men and white women were invited if belatedly to serve their country abroad, African American women were excluded for overseas duty throughout most of WWII. Under political pressure from legislators like Adam Clayton Powell Jr, the NAACP, the black press, and even President Roosevelt, the U.S. War Department was forced to deploy African American women to the European theater in 1945. African American women, having succeeded through their own activism and political ties in their quest to shape their own lives, answered the call from all over the country from every socioeconomic stratum. Stationed in France and England at the end of World War II, the 6888th Central Postal Directory brought together women like Mary Daniel Williams, a cook in the 6888th who signed up for the Army to escape the slums of Cleveland and to improve her ninth grade education, and Margaret Barnes Jones, a public relations officer of the 6888th who grew up in a comfortable household with a politically active mother who encouraged her to challenge the system. Despite the social, political, and economic restrictions imposed upon these African American women in their own country, they were eager to serve not only out of patriotism but out of a desire to uplift their race and dispell bigoted preconceptions about their abilities. Elaine Bennett, a First Sergeant in the 6888th, joined because I wanted to prove to myself and maybe to the world that we would give what we had back to the United States as a confirmation that we were full fledged citizens. Filled with compelling personal testimony based on extensive interviews, To Serve My Country is the first book to document the lives of these courageous pioneers. It reveals how their Army experience affected them for the rest of their lives and how they in turn transformed the U.S. military forever.
