Downtown Women:

Women and the Everyday City Jessica Ellen Sewell, 2011 In Women and the Everyday City Jessica Ellen Sewell explores the lives of women in turn of the century San Francisco. A period of transformation of both gender roles and American cities, she shows how changes in the city affected women's ability to negotiate shifting gender norms as well as how women's increasing use of the city played a critical role in the campaign for women's suffrage. Focusing on women's everyday use of streetcars, shops, restaurants, and theaters, Sewell reveals the impact of women on these public places: what women did there, which women went there, and how these places were changed in response to women's presence. Using the diaries of three women in San Francisco—Annie Haskell, Ella Lees Leigh, and Mary Eugenia Pierce—who wrote extensively on their everyday experiences, Sewell studies their accounts of day trips to the city and combines them with memoirs, newspapers, maps, photographs, and her own observations of the buildings that exist today to build a sense of life in San Francisco at this pivotal point in history. Working at the nexus of urban history, architectural history, and cultural geography, Women and the Everyday City offers a revealing portrait of both a major American city during its early years and the women who shaped it and the country for generations to come.

Calling Home Janet Zandy, 1990 Working class women are the majority of women in the United States, and yet their work and their culture are rarely visible. Calling Home is an anthology of writings by and about working class women. Over fifty selections represent the ethnic, racial, and geographic diversity of working class experience. This is writing grounded in social history, not in the academy. Traditional boundaries of genre and periodization collapse in this collection, which includes reportage, oral histories, speeches, songs, and letters, as well as poetry, stories, and essays. The divisions in this collection—telling stories, bearing witness, celebrating solidarity, addressing the distinction of by or about working class women, and showing the connections between individual identity and collective sensibility in a common history of struggle for economic justice—The geography of home, identity, parents, sex, motherhood, the dominance of the job, the overlapping of private and public worlds, the promise of solidarity and community—are a few of the themes of this book. Here is a chorus of working class women's voices: Sandra Cisneros, Barbara Garson, Meridel Le Sueur, Tillie Olsen, Barbara Smith, Endesha I M Holland, Mother Jones, Nellie Wong, Agnes Smedley, Bobbie Louise Hawkins, Sharon Doubiago, Carol Tarlen, Hazel Hall, Margaret Randall, Judy Grahn, and many others. The aesthetic impulse is shaped by class but not limited to one ruling class. What connects these writers is a collective consciousness, a class which rejects bondage and lays claim to liberation through all the possibilities of language. Calling Home is illustrated with family photographs as well as images of working women by professional photographers.

Women Divided Rosemary Sales, 2002-11-01 The ongoing Irish peace process has renewed interest in the current social and political problems of Northern Ireland. In bringing together the issues of gender and inequality, Women Divided, a title in the International Studies of Women and Place series, offers new perspectives on women's rights and contemporary political issues. Women Divided argues that religious and political sectarianism in Northern Ireland has subordinated women A historical review is followed by an analysis of the contemporary scene state market particularly employment patterns family and church and the role of women s movements The book concludes with an in depth critique of the current peace process and its implications for women s rights in Northern Ireland arguing that women s rights must be a central element in any agenda for peace and reconciliation Displaying Women Maureen E. Montgomery,2016-04-29

Displaying Women explores the role of women in the representation of leisure in turn of the century New York To see and be seen on Fifth Avenue and Broadway in Central Park and in the fashionable uptown hotels and restaurants was one of the fundamental principles in the display aesthetic of New York s fashionable society Maureen E Montgomery argues for a reconsideration of the role of women in the bourgeois elite in turn of the century America By contrasting multiple images of women drawn from newspapers magazines private correspondence etiquette manuals and the New York fiction of Edith Wharton Henry James and others she offers a convincing antidote to the long standing tendency in women s history to overlook women whose class affiliations have put them in a position of power Becoming Citizens Gayle Gullett,2000-02-07

In 1880 Californians believed a woman safeguarded the Republic by maintaining a morally sound home Scarcely forty years later women in the state won full fledged citizenship and voting rights by stepping outside the home to engage in robust activism Gayle Gullett reveals how this enormous transformation came about and the ways women s search for a larger public life led to a flourishing women s movement in California Though voters rejected women s radical demand for citizenship in 1896 women rebuilt the movement in the early years of the twentieth century and forged critical bonds between activist women and the men involved in the urban Good Government movement This alliance formed the basis of progressivism with male Progressives helping to legitimize women s new public work by supporting their civic campaigns appointing women to public office and placing a suffrage referendum before the male electorate in 1911 Placing local developments in a national context Becoming Citizens illuminates the links between women s reform movements and progressivism in the American West Publication ,1987 Cumulative List of Organizations Described in Section 170 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 United States.
