

The background image shows a laboratory or industrial environment. In the foreground, there is a large, irregular spill of yellow liquid on a grey floor. To the right of the spill, a yellow triangular warning sign with a black biohazard symbol stands upright. Behind the sign and spill, there are several large metal drums: two blue ones and one red one. A red fire extinguisher is visible in the background, and a red fire alarm pull station is on the left wall. The scene is lit by natural light from windows in the background.
