Mark J. Rauzon

Albatross Of Midway Island:

The Albatross of Midway Island Mildred L. Fisher,1970 Scientifically accurate this story of the Laysan Albatross is told from the point of view of the young bird as he begins life and as he matures to adulthood A unique and little known bird the Laysan spends most of its life at sea roaming tens of thousands of miles of ocean The adults whose life span is as much as thirty years return to land each winter to reproduce and raise their young After its initial departure from Midway at about five months of age the young bird does not return to breed for seven or eight years Mildred L Fisher the wife of Harvey I Fisher a noted zoologist who has conducted extensive research on the Albatross at the invitation of the Office of Naval Research has accompanied her husband on many trips to Midway and has served as his research assistant From her experience she has developed a respect and affection for the goonies which she feels is outside the scope of scientific data It is her desire here to present to all readers interested in natural history a personable view of this interesting and unusual bird The result is a story of the Laysan Albatross told with imagination and feeling Illustrated with over sixty black and white photographs

Albatrosses of Midway Island Sylvia A. Johnson,1990 Describes the characteristics and activities of the Laysan albatross which flies to Midway Island to breed Also discusses how birds and humans have learned to live together on this small island in the Pacific Ocean

Birds and Aircraft on Midway Islands, 1959-63 Investigations Chandler S. Robbins,1966 Recommendations are made for reducing the bird hazard and for protecting birds that are not involved in the hazard

Albatross Facts Glen Earthsong,AI,2025-02-18 Albatrosses masters of the skies and seas are the focus of Albatross Facts a book that explores the intricate lives of these seabirds It examines how they achieve sustained flight across vast oceans and their remarkable navigational skills These avian wonders use a technique called dynamic soaring exploiting wind gradients to minimize energy expenditure Furthermore albatross populations serve as critical indicators of ocean health reflecting the impact of ecological stresses on marine ecosystems The book progresses by first detailing the anatomy and physiology that enable efficient flight followed by an investigation into their navigation methods including the use of magnetic fields and celestial cues It also addresses the conservation challenges these birds face due to issues like plastic pollution and overfishing connecting their survival to broader global environmental concerns The book presents complex scientific data in an accessible manner making it a valuable resource for nature enthusiasts and students of biology alike

The Northwestern Hawaiian Islands ,1978 Albatrosses Terence Lindsey,2008-06-22 Most albatrosses range across the Southern Hemisphere from Antarctica to Australia and from South Africa to South America The ferocious air encircling Antarctica is an impossible place for almost all non aquatic animals but not for the albatross The most distinctive characteristic of albatrosses is that they ride storms They do not evade storms or flee them but climb aboard and ride them effectively throughout their lives. Aside from a few close relatives among the petrels and shearwaters they are the only animals that do this. Albatrosses outlines the life histories of these spectacular birds and explores some of the main strategies that have evolved to enable them to achieve mastery of one of the most hostile regions on the planet. Complemented by stunning photographs taken from remote locations, this book will be treasured by natural history and bird enthusiasts.

Investigations of Woodcock, Snipe and Rails in 1955 U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 1956 Isles of Refuge Mark J. Rauzon, 2000-11-01. In Isles of Refuge, the first book solely devoted to the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands, field biologist Mark Rauzon shares his extensive first-hand knowledge of their natural history while providing an engaging narrative of his travels. Braving seasickness, bad weather, and biting bird ticks, he journeyed from Nihoa to Kure to study and photograph plants and animals for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service: rare palms, sharks, turtles, seals, and thousands of birds—finches, terns, petrels, noddies, shearwaters, curlews, boobies, tropicbirds, ducks, and albatrosses or gooseys—famed throughout the Pacific for their flying prowess and bizarre breeding rituals. Isolation and access restrictions have led to the recovery of many of the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands' animal and plant populations to pre-exploitation levels, but they have also resulted in the general public's ignorance of the islands and their ecosystems. Informative and enjoyable, Isles of Refuge invites readers to learn more about the history and natural wonders of this invaluable resource. Woodcock Status Report, 1963, 1963. An index of woodcock reproductive success in 1961 and 1962 was obtained from age ratios in the hunting kill as determined from wings. For both seasons combined, hunters contributed 25,426 woodcock wings. Fisheries and Wildlife Research, 1979. Report on activities in the divisions of research. Special Scientific Report--wildlife, 1957. U.S. Government Research & Development Reports, 1970. The Albatross and the Fish Robin W. Doughty, Virginia Carmichael, 2012-01-20. Breeding on remote ocean islands and spending much of its life foraging for food across vast stretches of seemingly empty seas, the albatross remains a legend for most people. And yet, humans are threatening the albatross family to such an extent that it is currently the most threatened bird group in the world. In this extensively researched, highly readable book, Robin W. Doughty and Virginia Carmichael tell the story of a potentially catastrophic extinction that has been interrupted by an unlikely alliance of governments, conservation groups, and fishermen. Doughty and Carmichael authoritatively establish that the albatross's fate is linked to the fate of two of the highest value table fish: Bluefin Tuna and Patagonian Toothfish, which are threatened by unregulated commercial harvesting. The authors tell us that commercial fishing techniques are annually killing tens of thousands of albatrosses. And the authors explain how the breeding biology of albatrosses makes them unable to replenish their numbers at the rate they are being depleted. Doughty and Carmichael set the albatross's fate in the larger context of threats facing the ocean commons, ranging from industrial overfishing to our habit of dumping chemicals, solid waste, and plastic trash into the open seas. They also highlight the efforts of dedicated individuals, environmental groups, fishery management bodies, and governments who are working for seabird and fish conservation and demonstrate that these efforts can lead to sustainable solutions for the iconic seabirds and the entire ocean ecosystem Seabird Interaction
