Dragons—Searching for Kung Fu Laurence Brahm, 2024-08-01 The first part of this book Searching for Kung Fu recalls my own journey over decades in the search for both the most traditional Kung Fu practices and the philosophical teachings embedded within It begins as a teenager studying Karate in America learning from one of the great Okinawa masters Shihon Kenneth Funakoshi Realizing that the root of Karate is actually Kung Fu the journey brought me to China to the legendary Shaolin Monastery seeking the source of Kung Fu During these years I have had the opportunity and privilege to train under many of China's great masters whose stories and philosophies are imparted in this book I am sharing the story of my journey as it is really the shared journey of every martial artist The second part of this book The Gate of Nine Dragons reflects nine key Kung Fu principles presented through the traditional Nine Dragon Sons These are nine Kung Fu concepts that can be understood as a code shared by and belonging to every school of martial arts As a code this set of nine principles represent a set of integrated mind set values that we can adopt in our daily lives Perseverance Loyalty Balance Change Centering Harmony Flow Emptiness Non violence These nine Kung Fu principles can be understood as nine stages of training nine aspects of Chinese philosophy or nine values shared by martial artists offered here as a code Hong Kong Takes Flight

John D. Wong, 2024-11-01 Commercial aviation took shape in Hong Kong as the city developed into a powerful economy Rather than accepting air travel as an inevitability in the era of global mobility John Wong argues that Hong Kong's development into a regional and global airline hub was not preordained By underscoring the shifting process through which this hub emerged Hong Kong Takes Flight aims to describe globalization and global networks in the making Viewing the globalization of the city through the prism of its airline industry Wong examines how policymakers and businesses asserted themselves against international partners and competitors in a bid to accrue socioeconomic benefits negotiated their interests in Hong Kong's economic success and articulated their expressions of modernity River of Nine Dragons John Richardson, 2011-04-21 The River of Nine Dragons Song Cuu Long is the name given to the nine tails or distributaries of the Mekong River that flow through the thick verdant watery world of the Mekong Delta in Southern Vietnam and Cambodia The first of these to break away from the Mekong is the Bassac starting in the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh and making up one of the star of four converging waterways upon which Phnom Penh sits Jack Logan a naive country boy from North Carolina joins the Army with his cousin Joseph and becomes a U S Army Ranger The Vietnam War is about to change his life forever Like so many warriors of the past he has learned to love the effects of war the adrenaline rush and the heat of battle He rediscovered a love that he thought he lost along the way while discovering a new love in the process Now he's torn between the love of war and the love for two women Who will he choose the War Rana or Maya Making Hong Kong Pui-yin Ho, 2018-09-28 This insightful book provides a comprehensive survey of urban development in Hong Kong since 1841

Pui yin Ho explores the ways in which the social economic and political environments of different eras have influenced the city's development From colonial governance wartime experiences high density development and adjustments before and after 1997 through contemporary challenges this book explores forward looking ideas that urban planning can offer to lead the city in the future Evaluating the relationship between town planning and social change this book looks at how a local Hong Kong identity emerged in the face of conflict and compromise between Chinese and European cultures In doing so it brings a fresh perspective to urban research providing historical context and direction for the future development of the city Hong Kong's urban development experience offers not only a model for other Chinese cities but also a better understanding of Asian cities more broadly Urban studies scholars will find this an exemplary case study of a developing urban landscape Town planners and architects will also benefit from reading this comprehensive book as it shows how Hong Kong can be taken to the next stage of urban development and modernisation

When tipping is appropriate and when it is not Ancestral Images Hugh Baker, 2011-07-01 A new edition in one volume of Hugh Baker's celebrated three volumes of Ancestral Images originally published in 1979, 1980 and 1981. The 120 articles and photographs explore everyday life, customs and rituals in Hong Kong's rural New Territories. Each mouthful is complete in itself but together the articles amount to a substantial feast. They investigate religion, food, language, history, festivals, family, strange happenings and clan warfare. The book documents much that can no longer be found. But it also provides an understanding of a world which has not yet entirely disappeared and which still forms the background for life in modern urban Hong Kong. Esoteric nuggets of information are scattered through the book. How do you ascend a Pagoda with no staircase? How can you marry without attending the wedding? When is it wrong to buy a book? Race to the Sea Dr. Dayton Lee Alverson, 2008-11-03 Dr. Alverson's story covers his early life, experiences through high school, World War II, his education and his involvement in State, Federal and International fisheries science and management. His career and story cover the period 1950-2000, during which world fisheries would explode from small boat coastal activities to distant water fleets of large vessels. World catches would increase over 300% after WWII and most of the world's oceans and seas would be heavily exploited. Overfishing and impacts on coastal fisheries would lead the world community to seek new laws for the harvest of ocean fisheries and result in unilateral extension of national jurisdictions over ocean space. The growth of environmental movement in the later half of the 20th century would lead to conflicts between fishing and conservation groups, resulting in changes in national and international fish policies. The book tracks many of these developments and Dr. Alverson's personal involvements and experiences during the traumatic period of world fishery expansion. During the course of his life, marine fisheries resource would be seen as the great source of world protein to feed the world's hungry and later as overfished and polluted. The Cold War and Entertainment Television Lori Maguire, 2016-08-17 An essential dimension of the Cold War took place in the realm of ideas and culture. While much work exists on cinema, relatively little research has been conducted on this subject in relation to television, despite the latter being a technology and popular cultural form that emerged during this period. This book rectifies that absence by examining the impact of the Cold War on entertainment television and underlines the comparative aspect by studying programs from both blocs without forgetting, of course, the outsize impact of American television. Although most of the focus is on the two main protagonists, the US and the USSR, chapters also consider programming from the UK, Czechoslovakia, Romania and both East and West Germany. This book represents a contribution to the debate about the cultural Cold War through a rigorously comparative analysis of the two blocs. For this reason, the approach used is thematic. The study begins by considering the subject of censorship and then goes on to look at the very particular case of the two Germanys. A series of comparative genre studies follow, including police and war, variety shows and documentaries and docudramas. Perhaps surprisingly, the similarities are often greater than the differences between television in the two blocs.
