Bernard Cohen,1980 Deals with the establishment of modern science from the age of Leonardo Vesalius and Copernicus to the time of Lavoisier Benjamin Franklin Volta Linnaeus Albrecht von Haller and Newton Concludes with a section on science and society which show us the the magnificent scientific achievement Diderot's Encyclopédie and which culminates in the belief in progress and the limitlessness of science Album of Science ,1980

The Cambridge History of Science: Volume 3, Early Modern Science David C. Lindberg,Katharine Park,Ronald L. Numbers,Roy Porter,2003 An account of European knowledge of the natural world c 1500 1700 Society and Economy in Early Modern Europe, 1450-1789 Barry Taylor,1989 The Universe Unveiled: Instruments and Images

Through History Bruce Stephenson,Marvin Bolt,Anna Felicity Friedman,2000-11-13 The Universe Unveiled documents the human desire through history to explore and understand our world Taking a unique approach it focuses on the instruments books and maps people have created to decipher the Universe from the late fifteenth through to the nineteenth century Throughout the book is richly illustrated with over 270 full color images including those of rare and unusual artifacts from all over the world kept in the world renowned collection at the Adler Planetarium and Astronomy Museum in Chicago With clear and informative text it covers our discovery of Space and Time and our ever expanding understanding of Earth and the Heavens describing in particular the shift from an Earth centered to a Sun centered view of the Universe and the mapping of the stars using telescopes It also examines the technologies of navigation and of measuring and mapping the Earth as well as the discovery of ways to keep time The Triumph of Numbers I. Bernard Cohen,2015-11-05 From the pyramids to mortality tables Galileo to Florence Nightingale a vibrant history of numbers and the birth of statistics The great historian of science I B Cohen explores how numbers have come to assume a leading role in science in the operations and structure of government in marketing and in many other aspects of daily life Consulting and collecting numbers has been a feature of human affairs since antiquity taxes head counts for military service but not until the Scientific Revolution in the twelfth century did social numbers such as births deaths and marriages begin to be analyzed Cohen shines a new light on familiar figures such as Thomas Jefferson Benjamin Franklin and Charles Dickens and he reveals Florence Nightingale to be a passionate statistician Cohen has left us with an engaging and accessible history of numbers an appreciation of the essential nature of statistics Bibliography of the History of Medicine ,1984 Visual Cultures in Science and Technology

Klaus Hentschel,2014 This book aims to provide a synthesis of the history generation use and transfer of images in scientific practice It delves into the rich reservoir of case studies on visual representations in scientific and technological practice that have accumulated over the past couple of decades by historians sociologists and philosophers of science The main aim is thus located on the meta level It adopts an integrative view of recurrently noted general features of visual cultures in science and technology something hitherto unachieved and believed by many to be a mission impossible By systematic comparison of numerous case studies the purview broadens away from myopic microanalysis in search of overriding patterns The many different disciplines and research areas involved encompass mathematics technology natural history medicine the geosciences astronomy chemistry and physics The chosen examples span the period from the Renaissance to the late 20th century The broad range of visual representations in scientific practice is treated as well as schooling in pattern recognition design and implementation of visual devices and a narrowing in on the special role of illustrators and image specialists

An American Health Dilemma W. Michael Byrd, Linda A. Clayton, 2012-10-02 At times mirroring and at times shockingly disparate to the rise of traditional white American medicine the history of African American health care is a story of traditional healers root doctors granny midwives underappreciated and overworked African American physicians scrupulous and unscrupulous white doctors and scientists governmental support and neglect epidemics and poverty Virtually every part of this story revolves around race More than 50 years after the publication of An American Dilemma Gunnar Myrdal's 1944 classic about race relations in the USA An American Health Dilemma presents a comprehensive and groundbreaking history and social analysis of race race relations and the African American medical and public health experience Beginning with the origins of western medicine and science in Egypt Greece and Rome the authors explore the relationship between race medicine and health care from the precursors of American science and medicine through the days of the slave trade with the harrowing middle passage and equally deadly breaking in period through the Civil War and the gains of reconstruction and the reversals caused by Jim Crow laws It offers an extensive examination of the history of intellectual and scientific racism that evolved to give sanction to the mistreatment medical abuse and neglect of African Americans and other non white people Also included are biographical portraits of black medical pioneers like James McCune Smith the first African American to earn a degree from a European university and anecdotal vignettes like the tragic story of the Hottentot Venus which illustrate larger themes An American Health Dilemma promises to become an irreplaceable and essential look at African American and medical history and will provide an invaluable baseline for future exploration of race and racism in the American health system

Giants of Delft Robert D. Huerta, 2003 In a widely researched and deeply considered book Huerta argues that Vermeer's use of the camera obscura and other instrumental adjuncts parallels van Leeuwenhoek's pursuit of the optical way and embodies a profound philosophical connection between these investigators Analyzing Vermeer's work Huerta shows that the artist's choices were the result of his personal response to contemporary scientific discoveries and the work of men such as van Leeuwenhoek Christiaan Huygens and Galileo Galilei Furthermore Huerta compares Vermeer's program of informed observation to the methods used by van Leeuwenhoek and other scientists to accumulate and analyze instrument mediated knowledge This approach enabled Vermeer to confront the same issues as natural philosophers regarding the interpretation of unfamiliar images presented by instrumental systems
