Bowman, 2013-07-10 This is the fifth release in a series that provides a comprehensive insight into all aspects of RAF Bomber Command in World War Two It begins in late September 1944 when the Allied Bomber Offensive was at its height and takes us through to the end of the conflict The crews personal narrative puts you at the centre of each intense isolated and harrowing episode of aerial combat as the pilots of Bomber Command attempted to stave off fears of tragic injury and death from fighters flak and incessant operational pressure during raids on German cities waterways ports and oil installations This continued until the Luftwaffe and the Nachtjagd effectively ceased to exist their fuel supplies exhausted their losses in airmen reaching an unsustainable level and their aircraft and airfields decimated as a result of 24 hour Allied bombing Often it was the most exciting feats of bravery determination and daring that were marked by the most catastrophic losses Approximately 62 per cent of the 125 000 men who served as aircrew in Bomber Command during the war became casualties Of these 52 per cent were sustained while flying operations and a further ten per cent while on non operational flights in Britain It should never be forgotten that RAF Bomber Command played a hugely significant role in securing victory for the Allies carrying out mass raids by day and night that eventually culminated in them beating the life out of Germany Yet its crews were denied the campaign medal that they so richly deserved until very recently Here Martin Bowman attempts to provide an adequate

Bombing Pompeii Nigel Pollard,2020-11-18 Bombing Pompeii examines the circumstances under which over 160 Allied bombs hit the archaeological site of Pompeii in August and September 1943 and the wider significance of this event in the history of efforts to protect cultural heritage in conflict zones a broader issue which is still of great importance From detailed examinations of contemporary archival document Nigel Pollard shows that the bomb damage to ancient Pompeii was accidental and the bombs were aimed at road and rail routes close to the site in an urgent attempt to slow down the reinforcement and supply of German counter attacks that threatened to defeat the Allied landings in the Gulf of Salerno The book sets this event along with other instances of damage and risk to cultural heritage in Italy in the Second World War in the context of the development of the Allied Monuments Fine Arts and Archives the Monuments Men
