Serials and Series Buck Rainey, 2010-04-06 While many fans remember The Lone Ranger Ace Drummond and others fewer focus on the facts that serials had their roots in silent film and that many foreign studios also produced serials though few made it to the United States The 471 serials and 100 series continuing productions without the cliffhanger endings from the United States and 136 serials and 37 series from other countries are included in this comprehensive reference work Each entry includes title country of origin year studio number of episodes running time or number of reels episode titles cast production credits and a plot synopsis

Point of it All James R. Newman, 2016-06-06 The Point of it All is a thoroughly documented researched book about the history of the designs of antique barbed fencing This book describes hundreds of patents and over 2 000 patent design variations found in antique barbed fencing Varieties such as mild steel barbed wire strands sheet metal barbed strips barbed metal rods and barbed wooden rails Antique barbed fencing evolved from the wooden fences and plain wire fences of the 1850s The major antique barbed fencing period occurred from the late 1860s and mid 1870s to early 1900s when inventors in the Midwest and Northeast designed hundreds of new ways to corral livestock Using US Patent and Trademark Office records and other information sources the author describes how the inventors considered their patent designs unique what their purpose was and what factors influenced the changes in these designs over time The author describes the common patterns found in the structure and form of these patent designs Because of the complexity in these designs the author provides a proposed classification system for antique barbed fencing which can be used for sorting organizing and indexing barbed fencing patents into similar patents and design groups This book is intended for collectors farm historians and those of us who have ripped our pants crossing barbed wire fences

Lewis & Clark, Tailor Made, Trail Worn Robert John Moore, Michael Haynes, 2003 When the Lewis and Clark Expedition crossed a continent in 1803 to 1806 they started out in U S Army uniforms which gradually had to be replaced with simple leather garments For parts of those uniforms only a single drawing pattern or example survives Historian Moore and artist Haynes have researched archives and museums to locate and verify what the men wore and Haynes has painted and sketched the clothing in scenes of the trip Also included are Indian styles the men adopted and the wardrobes of the Creole interpreters and the French boatmen Weapons and accessories round out this complete record of what the expedition wore or carried and why A great reference for artists living history performers museums and military historians
