Of Facts And Records:

Matters of Fact (RLE Social Theory) Stanley Raffel, 2014-08-21 Facts may seem to be independent but in this study Stanley Raffel looks at them as expressions of commitment Medical records he believes furnish a principal example of the actively oriented character of the factual commitment and he draws on his experience of research among the records of a large modern hospital to demonstrate this He describes how records are produced and reorganized as records and discusses the grounds which provide for all the features of the records He looks at the act of observation in many apparently and concretely different places and analyses the activity of noticing viewing recording a spectacle where what is observed supposedly remains untouched by the observing Dr Raffel goes on to show that observation events records and criteria of assessment such as reliability and completeness lose their status as unexplicated verities and become instead decisive and consequential courses of action He points out too that the Socratic dialogues exemplify an orientation to commitment that even medical records paradoxically require if they are to be the matters of fact that they are Records of William Spooner, of Plymouth, Mass., and His Descendants Thomas Spooner, 1883 Physical Facts and Scriptural Record W.
