average trench soldier As the first chlorine clouds rolled across the fields during the 2nd Battle of Ypres soldiers were forced to stuff urine soaked handkerchiefs in their mouths in order to survive As the gas war evolved mustard gas plagued the soldiers at the front as it lay active in mud and snow for weeks on end There was no escape from the pervasive nature of poison gas Entering the dug outs it attacked men when they were least ready In response the Canadian Corps had to develop an anti gas doctrine a process that Cook describes in full No Place to Run provides a challenging re examination of the function of gas warfare in the First World War including its important role in delivering victory in the campaign of 1918 and its curious postwar legacy It will be of interest both to historians and military buffs
