

The promotional image for the TV show 'Our House' features the main cast members—two men and two women—looking intensely at the viewer. They are positioned behind a pane of glass that is shattered into several jagged pieces, creating a sense of tension and mystery. The background is a dimly lit interior with a window showing a view of a house. The title 'OUR HOUSE' is written in large, white, sans-serif capital letters across the middle of the image.

Of Our House:

Our House Gerry Smyth, Jo Croft, 2006 Space has emerged in recent years as a radical category in a range of related disciplines across the humanities Of the many possible applications of this new interest some of the most exciting and challenging have addressed the issue of domestic architecture and its function as a space for both the dramatisation and the negotiation of a cluster of highly salient issues concerning amongst other things belonging and exclusion fear and desire identity and difference Our House is a cross disciplinary collection of essays taking as its focus both the prospect and the possibility of the house This latter term is taken in its broadest possible resonance encompassing everything from the great houses so beloved of nineteenth century English novelists to the caravans and mobile homes of the latterday travelling community and all points in between The essays are written by a combination of established and emerging scholars working in a variety of scholarly disciplines including literary criticism sociology cultural studies history popular music and architecture No specific school or theory predominates although the work of two key figures Gaston Bachelard and Martin Heidegger is engaged throughout This collection engages with a number of key issues raised by the increasingly troubled relationship between the cultural built and natural environments in the contemporary world Our House in the Clouds

Judy Blankenship, 2013-04-04 While many baby boomers are downsizing to a simpler retirement lifestyle photographer and writer Judy Blankenship and her husband Michael Jenkins took a more challenging leap in deciding to build a house on the side of a mountain in southern Ecuador They now live half the year in Ca ar an indigenous community they came to know in the early nineties when Blankenship taught photography there They are the only extranjeros outsiders in this homely chilly town at 10 100 feet where every afternoon a spectacular mass of clouds rolls up from the river valley below and envelopes the town In this absorbing memoir Blankenship tells the interwoven stories of building their house in the clouds and strengthening their ties to the community Although she and Michael had spent considerable time in Ca ar before deciding to move there they still had much to learn about local customs as they navigated the process of building a house with traditional materials using a local architect and craftspeople Likewise fulfilling their obligations as neighbors in a community based on reciprocity presented its own challenges and rewards Blankenship writes vividly of the rituals of births baptisms marriages festival days and deaths that counterpoint her and Michael s solitary pursuits of reading writing listening to opera playing chess and cooking Their story will appeal to anyone contemplating a second life as well as those seeking a deeper understanding of daily life in the developing world Get Out of Our House Tim Cox, 2007-12 Get Out of Our House GOOOH

courtly culture the world of the highland Balinese has been largely ignored even though Bali counts among the most researched localities in the world This book explores their social organization and status economy from the perspective of an innovative theory of precedence Regional domains villages and origin houses among the Bali Aga are all conceived and ranked in reference to the basic ideas of a sacred origin in the past and of an order of precedence connecting the past with the present The analysis of precedence ranking evident at all levels of Bali Aga social organization leads to the development of a new theory of status for Austronesian societies that departs radically from the notion of hierarchy as proposed by Louis Dumont in his classic study of the Indian caste system
