A Church for the World Samuel Yonas Deressa, Josh de Keijzer, 2020-08-20 A Church for the World The Church's Role in Fostering Democracy and Sustainable Development challenges theologians and lay readers alike to think about the role of the church vis vis its responsibility to the world How may the church contribute to democracy and foster sustainable development Contributors from mostly non Western theological communities offer historical developmental ecclesiastical and theological perspectives on the church world relationship challenging misconceptions and practices that prevent the church from living up to its transformational vocation as salt and light in the world Matt 5 13 16 The driving force behind the questions and perspectives discussed here is Gustavo Gutierrez's axiom in A Theology of Liberation A theology which fails to address the most urgent needs of ordinary people is not worthy of the word theology Proceeding from this insight this book creates awareness about the relationship between religion democracy and development and aims to strengthen the self understanding of the church with regard to its responsibilities in the world

Christ and the Created Order Zondervan, 2018-05-08 According to the Christian faith Jesus Christ is the ultimate revelation not only of the nature of God the Creator but also of how God the Creator relates to the created order The New Testament explicitly relates the act of creation to the person of Jesus Christ who is also a participant within creation and who is said by his acts of participation to have secured creation's ultimate redemption from the problems which presently afflict it. Christian theology proposes that Jesus Christ the incarnate Word and Wisdom of God the agent in whom the Spirit of God is supremely present among us is the rationale and the telos of all things time space as we experience and explore it nature and all its enigmas matter itself. Christology is thus utterly fundamental to a theology of creation as this is unfolded both in Scripture and in early Christian theology. For all this the contemporary conversation about science and faith tends to a remarkable degree to neglect the significance of Jesus Christ focusing instead on a generic God of wonder or God of natural theology. Such general theism is problematic from the perspective of Christian theology on many levels and has at times led to a more or less deistic theology the impression that God has created the world then largely left it to itself. Such a theology is far removed from classical Christian renderings of creation providence redemption and eschatology. According to these the theology of creation is not just about remote beginnings or the distant acts of a divine originator. Rather the incarnate Jesus Christ is himself remarkably the means and the end for which creation itself exists. If we would think aright about our world study it and live within it wisely we must reckon centrally with his significance. What might such a bold claim possibly mean and why is Jesus Christ said by Christian theology to be so important for understanding God's overall relationship to the created order? What does this importance mean for science? Christ and the Created Order addresses these questions by gathering insights from biblical scholars theologians historians philosophers and scientists. This interdisciplinary collection of essays reflects on the significance of Jesus Christ for understanding the created world particularly as that world is observed by the natural sciences. Contributors to Christ and the Created Order include Marilyn McCord Adams Richard Bauckham Deborah Haarsma Paul Moser Murray Rae James K A Smith Norman Wirzba N T Wright and more.

Approaches to Monasticism in the Context of Christian Responses to Modern Culture Kevin Maddy, 2022-06-20. Approaches to Monasticism in the Context of Christian Responses to Modern Culture is a study of how the values and practices of monasticism are being shaped by the shift to a cultural understanding of Christianity in modern times. The values and practices of traditional monasticism are contrasted with those of various expressions of new monasticism against the background of a multicultural and fluid social environment in an effort to find some reciprocal illumination. The study aims to describe monasticism in terms of authenticity and lived religion. Kevin Maddy was educated at Cambridge University and has recently completed a PhD at Radboud University Nijmegen. He currently works in Canterbury as an Anglican parish priest and is a probationary member of the Society of the Resurrection.

In Quest of a Vital Protestant Center George Demetron, 2014-10-06 In Quest of a Vital Protestant Center probes the relationship between Scripture and culture in twentieth century US theology and biblical studies It points to the necessity of turning to what Karl Barth has referred to as the strange new world within the Bible for any revitalization of mainline Protestantism in the tradition of the Protestant Reformers in critical dialogue with serious evangelical theology The study includes a historical overview underlying what Demetron refers to as the fundamentalist modernist great divide which continues to resonate powerfully in contemporary US Protestant thought and culture Demetron offers an in depth exploration of four representative twentieth century Protestant theologians and biblical scholars spanning from the conservative evangelical theology of J I Packer to the postliberal dialectical theology of Walter Brueggemann The book includes a chapter on the neo orthodox legacy as a mediating resource in bringing evangelical and postliberal theology into dialogue with the core issues of theology biblical hermeneutics and religious culture Demetron concludes with a critically empathetic review of the postliberal dialectical theology of Douglas J Hall and the evangelical narrative theology of Richard Lints In linking evangelical postliberal and neo orthodox theology to a common search for a vital Protestant center this book will facilitate fruitful dialogue among divergent schools of Protestant thought and culture
