Children's Ways with Science and Literacy Maria Varelas, Christine C. Pappas, 2013-05-07 Science is often a forgotten subject in early elementary grades as various mandates require teachers to focus on teaching young students to achieve specific reading and mathematical competencies This book offers specific examples and empirical evidence of how integrated science literacy curriculum and teaching in urban primary grade classrooms give students opportunities to learn science and to develop positive images of themselves as scientists The Integrated Science Literacy Enactments ISLE approach builds on multimodal multidimensional and dialogically oriented teaching and learning principles Readers see how as children engage with texts material objects dialogue ideas and symbols in their classroom community they are helped to bridge their own understandings and ways with words and images with those of science In doing so they become learners of both science and literacy The book features both researcher and teacher perspectives It explores science learning and its intersection with literacy development in schools that educate predominately children of color many of whom struggle with poverty and have been traditionally underestimated underserved and underrated in science classrooms In all these ways this volume is a significant contribution to a critically under researched area of science education

Handbook of Reading Disability Research Anne McGill-Franzen, Richard Allington, 2010-09-17 Bringing together a wide range of research on reading disabilities this comprehensive Handbook extends current discussion and thinking beyond a narrowly defined psychometric perspective Emphasizing that learning to read proficiently is a long term developmental process involving many interventions of various kinds all keyed to individual developmental needs it addresses traditional questions What is the nature or causes of reading disabilities How are reading disabilities assessed How should reading disabilities be remediated To what extent is remediation possible but from multiple or alternative perspectives Taking incursions into the broader research literature represented by linguistic and anthropological paradigms as well as psychological and educational research the volume is on the front line in exploring the relation of reading disability to learning and language to poverty and prejudice and to instruction and schooling The editors and authors are distinguished scholars with extensive research experience and publication records and numerous honors and awards from professional organizations representing the range of disciplines in the field of reading disabilities Throughout their contributions are contextualized within the framework of educators struggling to develop concrete instructional practices that meet the learning needs of the lowest achieving readers
