

The background of the book cover is a dramatic illustration. A man wearing a brown cloak and blue jeans is seen from behind, walking along a dirt path that leads towards a large, ornate stone archway. The archway is brightly lit from within, creating a strong glow. To the left of the path is a green field with a small blue pond. To the right is a dark, rocky landscape with some sparse vegetation. The sky is a mix of orange and brown, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The overall mood is one of journey and hope.

Absolute Values And The Search For The Peace Of Mankind Proceedings Of The:

Absolute Values and the Search for the Peace of Mankind, 1981 Prophets and Photons Benjamin E Zeller, 2010-03-01 This in depth study shows how new religious movements offer a variety of strategies for reconciling science and religious faith By the twentieth century established religious traditions were forced to grapple with the challenges presented by scientific knowledge and innovation But emerging religions still led by a living founder to guide them found new ways to respond to science The Hare Krishnas the Unification Church and Heaven's Gate each found distinct ways to incorporate major findings of modern American science understanding it as central to their wider theological and social agendas In Prophets and Photons Benjamin Zeller examines how these New Religious Movements NRMs crafted their views on science during their founding period and how those views evolved over time These NRMs shed light on how religious groups new old alternative or mainstream could respond to the tremendous growth of power and prestige of science in late twentieth century America In this engrossing book Zeller carefully shows that religious groups had several methods of creatively responding to science and that the often assumed conflict based model of science vs religion must be replaced by a more nuanced understanding of how religions operate in our modern scientific world At the Edge Ann Dale, 2007-10-01 At the Edge is a rich and evocative call to action at a time when new ideas are urgently needed Mandatory reading for policy analysts and decision makers in the public private and volunteer sectors it will be equally useful to scholars teachers students and others interested in creating sustainable societies Throughout the world biophysical evidence is mounting that human growth and activity patterns are slowly destroying the earth This ecological deterioration is accompanied by similar social and economic decline with potentially grave consequences for the continued existence of human societies Yet as Ann Dale compassionately argues it is not too late to take action Hope lies in sustainable development the fundamental human imperative of the 21st century Sustainable development in Dale's view is the process of reconciling three imperatives the ecological the social and the economic Equitable access to resources in all three spheres is fundamental to the global realization of sustainable development This will not be realized without strong leadership by governments at all levels Ultimately needed is a new framework for governance based on human responsibility and a recognition of the interconnectedness of human and natural systems Absolute Values and the Search for the Peace of Mankind, 1981

An Anthology Regarding Merit Goods Wilfried Ver Eecke, 2007 Merit Goods are those goods and services that the government feels that people will under consume and which therefore ought to be subsidized or provided free at the point of use The consumption of merit goods is thought to generate positive externality effects where the social benefit from consumption exceeds the private benefit Examples of merit goods are health services education public libraries and inoculations against certain diseases Van Eecke has assembled a collection of articles and papers that covers the issue of merit goods from a variety of perspectives and has provided a single source for researchers and economists interested in the issue The work begins with a thorough look at Musgrave's notion of merit goods The subsequent sections expand the definition of merit goods and provide information on the application of merit goods theory in economic philosophical social and religious terms The reference also has an extensive bibliography

Ethical Dimensions of the Economy Wilfried Ver Eecke, 2008-03-19 Overview This book is a philosophical reflection using mainly Hegel in addition to 1 Adam Smith Kant Marx and Catholic Social Thought about the socio-political dimension of economics In it I both agree and disagree with the slogan that the least government is the best government I agree with the slogan in particular as it applies to the economic domain Adam Smith taught us that rational and self-interested individuals left by themselves create a more efficient and reliable economic system than one in which the government has a heavy role as was the case in his time with the mercantile system Smith 14-651 Ludwig von Mises demonstrated the same idea for the communist command economy Hayek 1935-87-130 I do agree with the above mentioned slogan if it is interpreted as suggesting that we can best forget about the role of the government for a good functioning economy Instead I will argue that the government has an important function in creating the proper regulations and the wise institutional arrangements which will allow the economy to flourish in a more efficient fair and humane way This book is interdisciplinary in nature It is a philosophical and ethical reflection on economics Hence I make use of philosophical ideas often but not exclusively those of Hegel I reflect philosophically on economic concepts

A Dynamic Balance Ann Dale, Jenny Onyx, 2010-10-01 Sustainable development is often viewed as having three imperatives ecological economic and social A Dynamic Balance illuminates the importance of understanding the social dimension as it examines the links between social capital and sustainable development within the overall context of local community development Looking at case studies in both Australia and Canada it draws upon lessons that can be learned to reconnect large urban centres and smaller communities Given the number of small communities in both countries struggling to diversify from single resource economies in a context of increasing globalization the analysis touches on several critical public policy issues The contributors argue that the key strategies for communities must be embedded in the dialectics of sustainable development Unless this critical imperative is met single resource economy communities will continue to face ecological social and economic collapse A Dynamic Balance is a timely and provocative call for reconciliation and reconnection within and between communities It makes unique links between two schools of thought social capital and sustainable community development showing how both are interdependent and can be mobilized by governments for greater agency in communities everywhere
