Studies in Specialized Discourse John

Flowerdew, Maurizio Gotti, 2006 This book analyses the various features of specialized discourse in order to assess its degree of specificity and diversification as compared to general language Prior to any analysis of such traits the notion of specialized discourse and its distinctive properties are clarified also as compared to other features frequently occurring in specialized texts which cannot be considered distinctive The presence of such properties are accounted for not only in linguistic but also in pragmatic terms since the approach is interpretative rather than merely descriptive The complexity of this discourse calls for a multidimensional analysis covering both lexis and morpho syntax as well as textual patterning Some lexical aspects morphosyntactic features and textual genres are also examined from a diachronic perspective thus showing how various conventions concerning specialized discourse have developed over the last few centuries Internationalising Learning in Higher Education María Luisa Carrió-Pastor, 2019-08-12 This edited book examines the use of English as a Medium of Instruction EMI in a variety of international higher education contexts The internationalization of education indicated by increasing mobility of students staff and ideas as well as by policies and programmes put in place to facilitate educational exchange has led to increasing adoption of English as a Lingua Franca ELF for educational purposes In this book the authors present the results of empirical research into the implementation assessment development and use of EMI programmes in different settings presenting the case for more structured training of teachers and staff It will be of interest to second foreign language teaching and administrative staff as well as anyone else involved in teaching in English at higher education level

Teaching College Writing to Diverse Student Populations Dana Ferris, 2009-06-02 Statistical and anecdotal evidence documents that even states with relatively little ethnic or cultural diversity are beginning to notice and ask questions about long term resident immigrants in their classes As shifts in student population become more widespread there is an even greater need for second language specialists composition specialists program administrators and developers in colleges and universities to understand and adapt to the needs of the changing student audience s This book is designed as an introduction to the topic of diverse second language student audiences in U S post secondary education It is appropriate for those interested in working with students in academic settings especially those students who are transitioning from secondary to post secondary education It provides a coherent synthesis and summary not only of the scope and nature of the changes but of their practical implications for program administration course design and classroom instruction particularly for writing courses For pre service teachers and those new to the field of working with L2 student writers it offers an accessible and focused look at the audience issues with many practical suggestions For teacher educators and administrators it offers a resource that can inform their own decision making New Directions for Research in L2 Writing S. Ransdell, M.-L. Barbier, 2012-12-06 GERT RIJLAARSDAM University of Amsterdam Utrecht University the Netherlands Multilingualism is becoming the default in our global world The present day global citizens use different languages in different situations Apart from their mother tongue they learn languages that give them access to other regions nations and worlds In all countries of the European Union for instance at least one foreign language is mandatory in secondary schools Most students are taught English as a foreign language the lingua franca in Europe In large parts of the USA students move from Spanish to English schooling In parts of Canada bilingual education is standard In Catalonia Spain children learn Catalan and Spanish in Hong Kong English and Chinese The smaller the world becomes the more languages are used and learned For writing process research this development into multilingualism entails at least two challenges First of all studying the relation between writing in L1 and L2 provides an opportunity for collaborative studies in different language settings Second the issue of generalization of findings comes to the fore It becomes evident now that we have unjustly neglected this issue in writing process research We forgot to ask whether it is feasible to talk about writing processes in general without referring to the language of the written texts and without taking into account the educational and linguistic culture in which these texts originate
