Acceb To Utility Service:

Access to Utility Service Charlie Harak, Olivia Bae Wein, Darlene R. Wong, John G. Howat, 2011 Access to Utility Service Charlie Harak, 2004 Access to Utility Service Margot Freeman Saunders, 1997 Attaining Access for All Asian Development Bank, 2010-10-01 Universal access to safe reliable energy is a necessary condition for providing the poor with safe water and sanitation for maintaining adequate standards of living and for achieving any of the Millennium Development Goals The Asian Development Bank recognizes the importance of electricity and water access for the poor and has committed to providing such access by establishing the Energy for All and Water for All initiatives While broad efforts aimed at regulatory reform and increasing energy and water access may be helpful targeted interventions measures and approaches are often needed to ensure that the poor benefit from these efforts This publication identifies specific infrastructure and utility service reform measures that can be taken to advance the interests of the poor Accounting for Poverty in Infrastructure Reform Antonio Estache, Vivien Foster, Quentin Wodon, 2002 Annotation This book provides practical guidelines and options for infrastructure reform that result in access and affordability for the poor It includes a new model for reform that consists of three main components policies regulation and provision which when properly balanced minimize the risks associated with reform Africa's Water and Sanitation Infrastructure, 2011-01-01 Africa's Water and Sanitation Infrastructure Access Affordability and Alternatives integrates a wealth of primary and secondary information to present a quantitative snapshot of the state of the WSS sectors in Africa It explains the sectoral institutional structures and utility performance and articulates the volume and quality of financing available over time The authors also evaluate the challenges to the WSS sectors and explore the factors that govern the expansion of coverage over time Finally the authors estimate spending needs for WSS arriving at a funding gap for meeting the MDGs The proposed directions for the future draw on lessons learned from best practices and present the menu of choices available to African countries bearing in mind that the challenges differ to a significant extent among countries and solutions must be tailored to national or regional conditions Book Jacket Empty Buckets and Overflowing Pits Roland Werchota, 2020-01-01 This book provides a multi level and multi dimensional insight into urban water and sanitation development by analyzing sector reforms in Africa With the recent events in mind water shortages in Cape Town widespread cholera in Haiti mass migration from low income countries etc it elaborates a pressing topic which is directly linked to the precarious living conditions of the urban poor in the developing countries It is urgent to acknowledge the proposed findings and recommendations of the book which will help to improve the situation of potential refugees in their home countries with a realistic vision for the development of the most basic of all life supporting services So many efforts to reverse the negative trend in water and sanitation development have failed or targets have been repeatedly missed by far without notable consequences for decision makers on different levels and institutions It has unnecessarily consumed many young lives contributed to keep billions in poverty until today and fostered discrimination of women The knowledge gap and the confusion in the sector lined out in the book becomes evident when a national leader in a low income country declares a state of emergency in urban water and sanitation while at the same time global monitoring publishes an access figure for urban water of over 90% for the same country It is time to change this with an effective sector development concept for our partner countries and a more realistic discourse on global level The book argues for a sweeping rethinking and combines extended local knowledge lessons learned from history in advanced countries and thorough research on reforms in Francophone and Anglophone developing countries This was possible because the writer was working in Sub Saharan partner countries for almost 30 years as an integrated long term advisor in different sector institutions ministry regulator financing basket and different sizes of utilities and had the opportunity to cooperate closely with the main development partners The reader has the opportunity to obtain a comprehensive understanding of how the sector works and sector institutions in low income countries function and can discover the reasons behind success and failures of reforms The book also covers issues which have a significant influence on urban water and sanitation development but are hardly the subject of discussions It helps to make the shortcomings of the water and sanitation discourse more apparent and assist institutions to move beyond their present perceptions and agendas All of this makes the book different from other literature about urban water and sanitation in the developing world
