Access to Information; Independent Administrative Agencies Law Reform Commission of Canada, Robert T. Franson, 1970      Study on Federal Regulation: Congressional oversight of regulatory agencies United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Government Operations, United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Governmental Affairs, 1977      Regulatory Reform in Canada W. T. Stanbury, Fred Thompson, Institute for Research on Public Policy, 1982

From the Introduction This study examines the nature of and prospects for regulatory reform in Canada In particular we are concerned with the elimination of liberalization of direct regulation in such industries as telecommunications airlines trucking and agriculture In focusing our attention on the prospects for reforming direct regulation in Canada we do not wish to slight the potential value of reforming the regulatory process But most procedural reforms focus on the margin or flow of new regulation while deregulation proper is aimed at reducing the enormous stock already in existence Within the field of direct regulation we have further narrowed our analysis to the role of the federal government as regulator      The Right of Congress to Obtain Information from the Executive and from Other Agencies of the Federal Government United States. Congress. House. Committee on Government Operations, 1956      Institutions Guaranteeing Access to Information OECD and MENA Region OECD, 2019-10-11 Thanks to comparative tables and precise examples this report offers an overall picture of the institutions guaranteeing access to information IGAI in OECD member countries While it does not provide a comprehensive analysis of each of these institutions it examines the legislation the composition and operation of the IGAs as well as their missions regarding the spontaneous disclosure and appeals following access to information requests
