

Case study of Audit Failure of Small and Medium-sized Accounting Firms

-- Take *ST Xinyi as an Example

Jing Liu

School of Management, Northwest University of Political Science and Law, China

Abstract: Accounting firms are an indispensable party in the securities market and play a role that cannot be underestimated in supervising audited units and protecting investors. With the implementation of the dual filing system, small and medium-sized accounting firms have also begun to enter the securities market, which has further developed the securities market. However, in order to undertake business, small and medium-sized firms sell audit opinions to enterprises with caps with questionable financial quality, and audit failure is inevitable. This paper takes *ST Xinyi as an example, analyzes the reasons for its fraud methods and audit failures, and puts forward some suggestions to reduce the occurrence of audit failures of listed companies by small and medium-sized firms.

Keywords: Audit failure, New securities law.

1. Introduction

In March 2020, the new securities law came into effect, and China's securities investment consulting services began to implement a dual filing system. Before the implementation of the dual filing system, accounting firms could only engage in the audit business of listed companies if they had "securities and futures business related qualifications", which undoubtedly created obstacles for small and medium-sized firms to undertake the audit business of listed companies, only 40 large accounting firms could engage in the audit business of listed companies, and thousands of small and medium-sized firms were blocked from the securities market. After the implementation of the dual filing system, according to the Institute of Certified Public Accountants, as of June 2022, 34 small and medium-sized accounting firms have filed with the CSRC and the State Council to begin undertaking securities service business. It can be seen that the dual filing system has brought opportunities for small and medium-sized firms to enter the securities market, and if the dual filing system can develop healthily, it will also promote the improvement and maturity of China's audit market to a certain extent.

1.1. Criteria for the classification of accounting firms

According to Jiang Minshen's large-scale division of large firms and small and medium-sized firms, this article will also adopt this division standard: large firms refer to accounting firms with operating income of more than 10 million yuan and more than 50 certified public accountants; Small and medium-sized firms refer to accounting firms with operating income of less than 10 million yuan and no more than 50 certified public accountants.

1.2. Characteristics of small and medium-sized accounting firms in China

1. Large quantity. As of the end of 2021, there were 8,911 accounting firms in China. There are only 40 large firms, most of which are small and medium-sized accounting firms.

2. Low business income. Small and medium-sized firms themselves do not have competitive advantages, the scale of clients that small and medium-sized firms can contact is not large, the audit report requirements they need are not high, and the price is relatively low. In addition, due to their own constraints, small and medium-sized firms cannot undertake more complex audit services, and the business they undertake is relatively simple, and their business income is naturally low.

3. There are fewer certified public accountants. Because small and medium-sized accounting firms do not have high business income, their investment costs in audit business will not be high, and they will not invest too much in talent reserves. In addition, audit professionals inevitably yearn for large firms, and it is difficult for small and medium-sized firms to retain professionals.

4. There are deficiencies in internal controls. Small and medium-sized firms have small organizations, and partners are prone to talk in the firm. However, if the partner's own professional quality is limited, it is inevitable that some unreasonable audit behaviors will occur, and if the partner is not proficient in the audit process, it is likely that the review will be a formality. In short, the deficiencies in the personal professionalism of the partners will have a great adverse impact on the internal control within the accounting firm.

2. Case Review

*ST Xinyi is the first listed company customer of Tangtang Firm. Before Tangtang Firm undertook this audit business, *ST Xinyi's annual audit accounting firm was Sichuan CEFC, and because *ST Xinyi did not pay the annual audit fee as agreed, CEFC decided not to sign the 2019 annual report audit project. In March 2020, *ST Xinyi announced that Tangtang Firm became its new annual audit accounting firm. Therefore, after the double filing, Tangtang Law Firm became the first small and medium-sized accounting firm in China to accept the audit business of annual reports of listed companies.
