Acculturation And Psychological Adaptation:

Acculturation and Psychological Adaptation Vanessa S. Castro, 2003-01-30 This volume addresses the psychological impact of interethnic contact and acculturation in Latin American settings focusing on the effects of acculturation on self esteem among adolescents Opening with an account of relevant theoretical and empirical literature on interethnic contact and acculturation this book represents an acid test of the cross cultural applicability of theory and method largely derived from research on acculturation to North American and European settings Much research has focused on acculturation processes among ethnic immigrants and ethnic minorities leading to the impression that host or majority groups remain unchangeable during acculturation By contrast this volume shows that psychological changes occur in all groups involved in the contact reinforcing the idea that acculturation is a special case of mutual influence This book will be of special interest for researchers scholars or students seeking to understand the acculturation process outside North America and Europe Strong evidence is presented showing the development of positive ties with both one's own and other relevant groups provides a more solid basis for self esteem than relinquishing ties to the ethnic group of reference Acculturation John W.

Berry, 2019-08-29 Acculturation is the process of group and individual changes in culture and behaviour that result from intercultural contact These changes have been taking place forever and continue at an increasing pace as more and more peoples of different cultures move meet and interact Variations in the meanings of the concept and some systematic conceptualisations of it are presented This is followed by a survey of empirical work with indigenous immigrant and ethnocultural peoples around the globe that employed both ethnographic qualitative and psychological quantitative methods This wide ranging research has been undertaken in a quest for possible general principles or universals of acculturation This Element concludes with a short evaluation of the field of acculturation its past present and future Ecology,

Acculturation, and Psychological Adaptation Ramesh Chandra Mishra, Durganand Sinha, John W. Berry, 1996 The authors examine not only a wide range of cognitive behaviours in relation to the ecological engagements of these tribes but also provide a comparative analysis of the lifestyles of the three cultural groups their patterns of child socialization and their experiences of and attitudes towards acculturation They also explore the experiences of acculturative stress in order to understand the different implications of integrating tribal groups with the rest of society A Postmodern Psychology of
