writers The Politics of Cultural Capital Julia Lovell, 2006-03-31 In the 1980s China's politicians, writers and academics began to raise an increasingly urgent question: why had a Chinese writer never won a Nobel Prize for literature? Promoted to the level of official policy issue and national complex, Nobel anxiety generated articles, conferences and official delegations to Sweden. Exiled writer Gao Xingjian's win in 2000 failed to satisfactorily end the matter and the controversy surrounding the Nobel committee's choice has continued to simmer. Julia Lovell's comprehensive study of China's obsession spans the twentieth century and taps directly into the key themes of modern Chinese culture: national identity, international status and the relationship between intellectuals and politics. The intellectual preoccupation with the Nobel literature prize expresses tensions inherent in China's move toward a global culture after the collapse of the Confucian world view at the start of the twentieth century and particularly since China's re-entry into the world economy in the post-Mao era. Attitudes toward the prize reveal the same contradictory mix of admiration, resentment and anxiety that intellectuals and writers have long felt toward Western values as they struggled to shape a modern Chinese identity. In short, the Nobel complex reveals the pressure points in an intellectual community not entirely sure of itself. Making use of extensive original research including interviews with leading contemporary Chinese authors and critics, The Politics of Cultural Capital is a comprehensive up-to-date treatment of an issue that cuts to the heart of modern and contemporary Chinese thought and culture. It will be essential reading for scholars of modern Chinese literature and culture, globalization, post-colonialism and comparative and world literature.

New Statesman, 2002 Half Baked in Taiwan Beth Fowler, 2000-07-21 What Readers and Reviewers say about Half Baked in Taiwan: Entertaining, also very educational. Troy Henley, Columbus, Ohio: Half Baked in Taiwan is worth reading. Fowler writes well; she hits the nail on the head. Mat Match, Topics, American Chamber of Commerce in Taiwan magazine: Well-paced, funny and all-around excellent. Francesca Kelly, Editor in Chief, Tales from a Small Planet: One of the few elite authors who covers Taiwan with insight and intelligence. Jeremy Teigen, University of Texas political science grad student, former Taiwan resident: I read it in one sit, laughed myself achy. Karen Schmitt, editor, New Views Southern Taiwan: Professional and highly readable. Jack Barker, editor, www.travelmag.co.uk: Fowler, a world traveler and accomplished observer of human nature, has written a book that is more than just a travelogue. Joan Viener, Amazon reviewer: A humorous blend of travelogue, culture clash and fish-out-of-water tales. Chris Mautner, reviewer, Harrisburg Patriot News USA: Fowler's description is a wry take on Taiwan. John Bugbee, journalist, York Sunday News USA: Fowler writes about her two and a half years in Taiwan in a witty new book she calls Half Baked in Taiwan. Ann Diviney, Evening Sun Style Editor, USA: In Half Baked in Taiwan, Beth Fowler invites readers to saddle up, mount a beast called culture shock and hang on for a jolting ride. Filled with anecdotes of an American's experience of life in Taiwan, the episodes are about everything from the seemingly mundane task of mailing a letter in a foreign land to the fated moment when Fowler concludes that the so-called Westernization of Asia is a terribly misleading exaggeration. The overall experience of being a Westerner living in Taiwan can cause one to feel a through translation James St. André, 2023-11-07 This monograph provides an innovative methodology for investigating how China has been conceptualised historically by tracing the development of four key cultural terms filial piety face fengshui and guanxi between English and Chinese It addresses how specific ideas about what constitutes the uniqueness of Chinese culture influence the ways users of these concepts think about China and themselves Adopting a combination of archival research and mining of electronic databases it documents how the translation process has been bound up in the production of new meaning In uncovering how both sides of the translation process stand to be transformed by it the study demonstrates the dialogic nature of translation and its potential contribution to cross cultural understanding It also aims to develop a foundation on which other area studies might build broader scholarship about global knowledge production and exchange
