Dropouts In America Enough Is Known For Action A Report For Policymakers And Grantsmakers:

Dropouts in America Andrew Hahn, Jacqueline Danzberger, Bernard Lefkowitz, 1987 Dropouts are defined throughout this document including in its graphic displays as early school leavers expelled intermittent learners leftouts pushouts stopouts suspended and truants Sufficient research has been done about school dropouts to begin a comprehensive solution Schools and other institutions must mobilize the knowledge to devise ways of 1 identifying at risk youth early in their school career 2 intervening in their personal lives with a unique array of prevention services through longitudinal case management 3 using skills training programs to alleviate the crisis of incompetence which alienates dropouts from the labor market 4 improving training for educators and social service staff and 5 establishing a state level monitoring agency In a rebuttal statement by a member of the publication s advisory board the report is praised for its sense of urgency and commitment but two caveats are added 1 research on the problems of dropouts is not yet adequate regarding the implementation or impact of various programs and policies and 2 ways to coordinate the proposed services to dropouts and at risk youth are vague and lack the framework needed to create an organized efficient agency at the state level VM Resources in Education ,1987-10

Financing Public Education in an Era of Change Kenneth Forbis Jordan, Teresa S. Lyons, 1992 Diverse economic social and legal concerns have brought renewed attention to the problem of financing public schools The primary economic concern is preparing students to compete successfully in the international marketplace The change in demographics of the United States also is a major social concern for education Legal concerns focus on school financing systems that are equitable to students and taxpayers and on providing adequate school funding Despite complex state school financing formulas questions remain about what to fund spending levels revenue sources and support from different levels of government The answers to funding questions must be reached within the context of how schools function as well as the demographic political economic social and legal factors influencing school funding This book is intended to help both educators and the general public better understand public school finance Chapter topics include the context for public school finance demographics and education school finance policy goals and outcomes state school finance equalization systems the courts and school finance taxation and sources of revenue for schools and issues in public school finance References accompany each chapter JPT

Gross, 1988-05-02 Partners in Education describes how colleges and universities can help improve teaching and learning in the nation s secondary schools through innovative educational and professional development programs Children and Families Sandra Anderson

Garcia, Robert Batey, 1991 Family relations produce some of the most profound conflicts in modern life The creation and dissolution of family ties spark off fundamental human emotions that frequently clash with alarming force and leave a tangle of legal and ethical complications Children and Families has been chosen as the subject of this new series inaugural volumes because the problems currently besetting the family and particularly those afflicting its younger members are equally challenging to students of psychology law and ethics Although these volumes may provide a few answers to questions on topics such as surrogate parenting social policy or child abuse its more important function will be to facilitate the interdisciplinary exchange of insight and information that appears to be necessary effectively to resolve complicated social issues

Pathways for Minorities Into the Health Professions Pedro J. Lecca, Thomas D. Watts, 1989-10-19 This book introduces the reader to the scope and extent of minority underrepresentation in the health professions Underrepresented minority groups include Afro Americans Hispanics and Native Americans Drs Lecca and Watts have cited a number of studies and papers describing trends in minority enrollment in health profession institutions Among the areas which the authors focus on are the recruitment and admissions process which they note need intensive reexamination by higher education administrators and educators They describe examples of academic enrichment and retention programs They suggest that minority retention and the ultimate goal increase in graduation will only be achieved if financial and other forms of institutional and private public support are forthcoming The book concludes with some modest recommendations
