There is no real biography of Alexandre Dumas Nobody has collected and sifted all his correspondence tracked his every movement and pursued him through newspapers and legal documents Letters and other papers if they have been preserved should be as abundant in the case of Dumas as they are scanty in the case of Moli re But they are left to the dust of unsearched offices and it is curious that in France so little has been systematically written about her most popular if not her greatest novelist Many treatises on one or other point in the life and work of Dumas exist but there is nothing like Boswell s Johnson or Lockhart s Scott The M moires by the novelist himself cover only part of his career Les Enfances Dumas and they bear the same resemblance to a serious conscientious autobiography as Vingt Ans Apr s bears to Mr Gardiner s History of England They contain facts indeed but facts beheld through the radiant prismatic fancy of the author who if he had a good story to tell dressed it up with a cocked hat and a sword as was the manner of an earlier novelist The volumes of travel and the delightful work on Dumas s domestic menagerie Mes B tes also contain personal confessions as does the novel Ange Pitou with the Causeries and other books Fortunately Dumas wrote most about his early life and the early life of most people is more interesting than the records of their later years In its limitation to his years of youth the M moires of Dumas resemble that equally delightful book the long autobiographical fragment by George Sand Both may contain much Dichtung as well as Wahrheit at least we see the youth of the great novelists as they liked to see it themselves The M moires with Mes B tes possess this advantage over most of the books that the most crabbed critic cannot say that Dumas did not write them himself In these works certainly he was unaided by Maquet or any other collaborator They are all his own and the essential point of note is that they display all the humour the goodness of heart the overflowing joy in life which make the charm of the novels Here unmixed unadulterated we have that essence of Dumas with which he transfigured the tame copy drawn up by Maquet and others under his direction He told them where to find their historical materials he gave them the leading ideas of the plot told them how to block out the chapters and then he took these chapters and infused into them his own spirit the spirit which in its pure shape pervades every page of the M moires They demonstrate that while he received mechanical aid from collaborators took from their hands the dry bones of his romances it was he who made the dry bones live He is now d Artagnan now Athos now Gorenflot now Chicot all these and many other personages are mere aspects of the immortal the creative Alexandre The Bay State Monthly ,1897 Records Relating to the Early History of Boston ... Boston (Mass.). Unlocking Shakespeare's Secrets Ambreen Sidhu,2023-09-30 The book is an indispensable student guide crafted for all candidates of the ICSE English Literature Board Exam Within its pages you ll find masterfully rendered modern translations of Shakespeare s timeless classic The Merchant of Venice and a treasure trove of simplified insightful notes curated for a wide array of short stories and poems This invaluable resource transcends boundaries proving immensely beneficial to every student irrespective of their proficiency level for it is a meticulously compiled and extraordinarily comprehensive compendium replete with essential imperative pointers that no student can afford to omit in their board exams Gray youth Oliver Onions,2015-10-27 BOOK ONE A VERY MODERN COURTSHIP PART I ARGUMENT I CHEYNE WALK In Cheyne Walk Chelsea there used to stand and may stand yet a tenement of which the ground floor was a small lock up greengrocer s shop and the remaining portions either dwelling rooms or else rooms that like the shop were left at night and returned to again the next morning The narrow entry to the right of the shop had once been white washed but was now so discoloured that the street boys had ceased to scribble on its walls the names of horses and other matters It was full of the smell of apples and oranges and of the more suspect odour of earth and bruised rinds and decaying outer leaves and there was usually a cat or two about licking up the last splash left by the milkman s can When a new milkman took the round he was lucky if he did not come down all fours at the bottom of the narrow winding staircase that turned off sharp to the right The staircase itself was as black as the inside of a pair of bellows and a piece of paper at the foot of it bore two names Miss Dorothy Lennard Miss Amory Towers These were followed by the words First Floor if Out leave Parcels at Shop 19 The landing of the first floor was slightly less black than the staircase itself but the grey half light filtered through not from any window but from the unhinged side of the door of the room rented by Miss Lennard and Miss Towers As if the landing had been damp and the room beyond warm which possibly was the case this door which was of thin matchboarding warped inwards quite two inches at the top and indeed seemed to be held only by the fastening in the middle When the door happened to be locked the glimpse through this crack was always productive of a slight annoyance It was as if Miss Dorothy Lennard or Miss Amory Towers was nearly in or not quite gone away or in any case must be returning in a few minutes People often waited for quite a long time before finally giving up hope Early on an April afternoon some years ago there walked quickly into the entry and ran confidently up the dark stairs a tall young woman in a large black picture hat and a long tea coloured silk raincoat On the first landing she pushed at the door with her foot There was a short succession of flapping and shot like sounds for if the door skellowed inwards at the top it stuck correspondingly at the bottom and then the door started open and the young woman entered Amory she called loudly Where are you The last words were superfluous since unless she had climbed out of the long front casement and on to the gutter it was not possible for Miss Towers to be in hiding in the room And out of the square aperture at the back that commanded a view of washing weeds 20 discarded bottles the greengrocer s empties and the back gardens of the west side of Oakley Street she could not as much as have got her head Nor did Miss Lennard wait for an answer Down the chimney opposite the door there came a dense yellow cauliflower of smoke Miss Lennard hastily closed the door again and then first looking for a moment this way and that she strode to a black and white desk near the long casement and began to turn over the litter upon it This which was a foot and more high consisted of magazines and ladies journals and tracing paper and proofs and it was surmounted first by a plate with a couple of bananas and a half eaten bunch of grapes upon it and secondly by a glass of water clear above cloudy in the middle and with a thick reddish sediment at the bottom As she sought Miss Lennard popped three or four grapes into her large O of a mouth throwing the skins towards the fireplace from which another opaque yellow cauliflower poured though this time not quite so far out into the room She had removed her gloves her hands were large and firm and waxen and without rings and one or other of them found its way of itself to the grapes while the other continued its search The smoking of the chimney had blackened the ceiling which bellied downwards in the middle like the under side of a giant s mattress and it had also dimmed the surfaces of such of the brighter objects of furniture as the cheap working room contained the picture glasses the gate legged table a bowl full of dead daffodils and some crockery But Miss Lennard and Miss Towers frequently said that it was not 21 for the inside of the room but for the sake of the views from the long lattice in front that they had chosen the place These were for ever changing and charming From a standpoint just within the door you looked over the Embankment Gardens and saw through trees lighters following the bullying tugs or barges their sails reefed to the sprits resembling tall attenuated figures in the act of grasping punting poles Placing yourself in the middle of the worn floor you saw crossed out as it were by the middle lattice the Chelsea Jelly Factory and other buildings across the river And standing quite by the fireplace you saw the lacy lines of the Suspension Bridge and the low grey green trees of Battersea Park As the chimney emitted more yellow curds Miss Lennard with an Ugh opened the middle section of this window The papers among which she had been searching were instantly whisked across the floor Bother the thing she muttered How stupid if it s at Oxford Street all the time I say Amory have you seen that Doubleday thing You know the Chemisettes I was sure I d left it here The door had rattled again and Miss Amory Towers had entered Miss Towers did not answer at once From a brown pudding bowl of a hat with a silken cord round it she drew out two enamel headed hatpins and hung the hat on a hook Its removal showed her rich hair no longer in a plait but wreathed round and round her head and interplaited until it resembled a vividly painted fir cone

She wore a peacock s neck coloured blouse with several necklaces of iridescent shells at the collar a roughened leather belt encircled the waist that would have been large had she herself not been so small and while the breeze from the open window rippled in Dorothy s tea coloured raincoat it hardly stirred the folds of Amory s heavier skirt of dusty looking brown velvet She moved to the window I haven t touched your things she said Then she stood half leaning against the embrasure gazing moodily across the river Certainly she was fetchingly pretty As if you had looked at her through one of the very weak reducing glasses illustrators use in order to see how their work will diminish so her features had not only a special smallness but somehow a special brightness of their own as well The slight neck was white as a bluebell stalk the faint flower like stippling that never quite broke through into avowed freckles reminded you of a rubbed old miniature that might have been painted not on ivory but on a lamina of pale gold and her inordinate hair lighted up the whole casement angle But she was perturbed about something She watched a string of lighters drift down with the tide and then without turning her head said Dorothy Dorothy who had been once more searching among the scattered papers rose from her knees She held a piece of paper in her hand Got it she cried triumphantly I knew I d left it here What Have you heard about Aunt Jerry Thank goodness I haven t trailed all the way from 23 Oxford Street for nothing Aunt Jerry No What about her She s going to be married Ordinarily Dorothy Lennard s blue eyes were wide receptive rounds in moments of surprise they always seemed to open to twice their size They did so now No Oh my dear do tell me quick Mr Massey at the boarding house Mr Not the safety valve she cried Yes My dear But he s forty if he s a day Dorothy exclaimed He s forty three Aunt Jerry s thirty eight Oh but she s such a darling Have they told people yet May I write her a note When are they going to be married Miss Lennard came as near to asking the three questions all in one as was physically possible Write if you like They re getting married in July I call it But instead of saying what she called it Amory turned impatiently to the window again She was biting the corner of her upper lip Why said Dorothy checked in her glee what s the matter But Amory did not speak She had been about to say if a thing so obvious needed to be said that it was ridiculous to say the least for people of thirty eight and forty three to be thinking about marriage but that was not all There were other things that since Dorothy could not understand them even if she did say them were perhaps not worth wasting breath over Not that Dorothy was actually dull but for all that Amory had almost ceased to hope that Dorothy would ever grasp her Amory s true position Their circumstances were so very different Of course Amory was ready to concede that Dorothy like herself did contrive to live on what she earned she earned from thirty to thirty five shillings a week as a fashion artist but it was one thing to make do on that with people behind you to catch you when you stumbled and quite another to have as Amory had under her godmother s will a scanty thirteen pounds a quarter to sell a sketch or a picture once in a blue moon and to know that that is all the help you need look forward to Dorothy would quickly have found out the difference had it been she Amory who had had the people with houses in town and places up and down the country and herself Dorothy who had been the daughter of a poor and clever Cambridge practitioner who had died before he had managed to get on his feet and had left his daughter to live with the only relative she had in the world in a hateful boarding house in Shepherd s Bush And it was all very fine for Dorothy to joke about it and to say that the fewer relatives she had the luckier she was There was no getting away from it these things did give a confidence to Dorothy s stride and an assurance to her glance and an expectation of success to her eyes Therefore Amory did not answer when her friend asked her what was the matter But Dorothy after a moment s cogitation contrived 25 though probably by accident to hit on what was the matter for herself I must write to her at once she said In July so soon I am glad I do hope they ll be happy And what ll you do Go on living at the boarding house Ah Amory thought so Dorothy did see it from somebody s point of view besides Aunt Jerry s She moved one shoulder petulantly Aunt Jerry paid the bills there she said Do you mean that you ll go and live with them when they re married Dorothy asked No I don t said Amory with marked brevity Dorothy hadn t seen her aunt and Mr Massey together or she wouldn t have asked that And one of them was thirty eight and the other forty three Talk about the loves of the valetudinarians Well what will you do Dorothy asked again Again Amory turned to the window She spoke with her back to Dorothy What can I do What is there left Come and live here as far as I can see she replied Oh cried Dorothy at once struck with the idea that ll be jolly Jolly With that warped door and that chimney Jolly Amory almost laughed Oh yes very jolly she said tossing the adorable little head But Dorothy caught the tone in which she said it Oh I don t suppose it will be if you re determined it shan t but don t I just wish I had your talent and 26 chances she replied cheerfully My hat wouldn t I swap Why think of what all the critics Hamilton Dix at any rate are saying about you You re going to have a show all on your own H m If I ever do Don t forget it s been put off three times already Well but each time it couldn t be helped and you re going ahead working all the time and it ll be a tremendous leg up for you when it does come You ought to have my job my dear in the middle of a catalogue rush or when you ve drawn the lingerie ladies as like fishes as ever they can be and you get letters complaining that you re starting young men on the downward path you d come back to your pictures thankfully enough then I can tell you The fact is you don t know what you do want Now I m going to make a cup of tea and then I must fly back I only came for that Doubleday thing Have some She crossed to the sink emptied the leaves from the teapot on to the heap that already choked the trap and filled the kettle and set it on the fire It always annoyed Amory when Dorothy told her that she didn t know really what she did want for she always did know at any rate for the time being True she had worked in various styles in the past to an unintelligent watcher she might even have seemed vacillating and changeable but after all what better course could a student follow than that Youth was the time for bold experiment Settled convictions too early arrived at were things to be distrusted And there were indications that she really had found herself 27 at last She had swept aside quite a long time ago her earlier efforts of the days of the McGrath she had outgrown too the Meunier like figures all muscle and hammers and leather aprons that had first attracted Mr Hamilton Dix s attention and all round that Cheyne Walk room were stacked the canvases of her latest and she hoped her finally settled phase her Saturday night street markets her character studies worked up from sketches made in Whitechapel and Shoreditch her scenes sketched in alleys and courts and during long waits in gallery queues Therefore she was a little annoyed with Dorothy now Dorothy was clearing the table and cutting bread and butter Amory continued to look out of the window Then while Dorothy still prepared tea she moved from the window and walked to the little shelf of books that occupied the recess on the farther side of the fireplace She took down a volume protected by a stout brown paper wrapper and began to read as she stood Still reading she sidled slowly back to the window where the light was better and mechanically turned the page She could always pick up a book and lose herself at a moment's notice like this If at such times she was spoken to she usually gave an Eh or a Yes no I mean and continued to read She considered it to be evidence of her powers of mental concentration The book she was reading now was the first volume of The Golden Bough Such a book of course was far too expensive for her to buy therefore in order that she might read it and its kind she subscribed to a sort of private Association which was composed of herself and a dozen or so of her old friends of the McGrath They bought the books as they were published passed them protected by the brown paper covers from one to another and after a time sold them back to the bookseller again at diminished but still quite good prices None but rather expensive and abstruse books were thus bought had The Golden Bough been procurable in the Bohn Library the Association would have felt that something of its choiceness had gone and Amory hoped when she had got through The Golden Bough to be the next in rotation for certain of the Tudor Translations and she did wish Laura Beamish would hurry up with Apuleius and the Golden Ass These things contributed to breadth of outlook It had for too long been a justly founded reproach against artists that they had no general culture Amory felt that of all people an artist certainly could not know too much and what an artist knows will go sooner or later into his or her art She was still deep in The Golden Bough when Dorothy called Ready come along Amory Reluctantly Amory laid aside the book and sat down at the little gate-legged table As the two girls took tea they talked of Miss Geraldine Towers's engagement of Amory's own plans after the wedding of the Exhibition that for various reasons Mr Hamilton Dix had repeatedly postponed and of one thing and another Then Dorothy rose She must get back to the fashion studio in Oxford Street 29 You're going to work I suppose she said as she tucked the Doubleday thing into her belt and adjusted her hat before the little kitchen mirror Amory yawned That was another thing Dorothy never seemed really to grasp that while she Dorothy might sit down to her absurd attenuated fashion figures as it were with the striking of a clock Amory's work was rather different Dorothy of course always professed to admire Amory's painting enormously in a sense she had no choice but to do so unless she wished to write herself down an out and out fool but she never really understood in spite of the pains Amory had taken with her It was rather pathetic Amory yawned again Oh I don't suppose I shall do very much This about Aunt Jerry's put me quite off And she grimaced slightly there's to night They're having a party or a celebration or something at our boarding house I expect that'll be rather ghastly Want to come and see But Dorothy only laughed To night A party Me I shall be lucky if I get away by eleven And oh I say Amory her tone changed suddenly and all at once she seemed embarrassed I nearly forgot there s something it had almost slipped out of my head I hope you won t mind my suggesting it It was part of Amory s cleverness helped of course by her wide reading that she often knew what people were going to say almost before they knew it themselves She knew what Dorothy was going to say now 30 And it was not true that Dorothy had nearly forgotten that was merely false delicacy and a roundabout way of approaching the subject Amory smiled You see Dorothy went on there s a job of sorts going not a fashion not exactly a fashion that is more like a painting and I think the price could be screwed up to fifteen pounds for it Mercier would get twenty five but then he s Mercier So I wondered She paused diffidently It was not the first time she had tried to put work into Amory s way And Amory knew that she was perfectly right in refusing it it was Dorothy who did not know that the commercially acceptable thing is separate in kind and not a dilution of a different excellence Dorothy by rising might in time attain to the heights of the great Mercier who did Doubleday Spring Covers but Amory stooping would only have stooped for nothing She lifted her golden eyes to her friend She was half amused at the success of her guess and half sensible of Dorothy s well meaningness and kindness of heart It s awfully good of you but you know I simply shouldn t know how to begin she said I think perhaps I d better stick to my own job Not if I gave you tips said Dorothy almost wistfully I m afraid not Dorothy openly admired her The two girls had been at the McGrath together and Dorothy s admiration was the homage that artistic vice fashion drawing 31 paid to artistic virtue street markets and an impending one man show II THE SURPRISE PARTY III THE FASHION STUDIO IV THE MCGRATH V POUNDS AND SHILLINGS VI WOMAN S WHOLE EXISTENCE VII THE VOICE THAT BREATHED O ER EDEN PART II I PENCE II A DAMSEL ERRANT III BUSINESS AS USUAL IV IL FAUT QU UNE PORTE V BOND AND FREE PART III I THE LEAGUE II BARRAGE III EPITHALAMIUM ENTR ACTE BOOK TWO A VERY MODERN MARRIAGE PART I I THE WITAN PORTION OF TREE OF THE LENNARDS AND TASKERS Comments by Lady Tasker II THE POND ROOM III THE NOVUM IV THE STONE WALL V THREE SHIPS VI POLICY PART II I THE PIGEON PAIR II THE VERT III THE IMPERIALISTS IV THE OUTSIDERS V HOUSE FULL VI THE SOUL STORM PART III I LITMUS II BY THE WAY III DE TROP IV GRAY YOUTH TAILPIECE
