

The Principles of Universal Design

The design of products and environments to be usable by all people, to the greatest extent possible, without the need for adaptation or specialized design.

1 Equitable Use

The design is useful and marketable to people with diverse abilities.

5 Tolerance for Error

The design minimizes hazards and the adverse consequences of accidental or unintended actions.

2 Flexibility in Use

The design accommodates a wide range of individual preferences and abilities.

6 Low Physical Effort

The design can be used efficiently and comfortably and with a minimum of fatigue.

3 Simple and Intuitive Use

Use of the design is easy to understand, regardless of the user's experience, knowledge, language skills, or education level.

4 Perceptible Information

The design communicates necessary information effectively to the user regardless of ambient conditions or the user's sensory abilities.

7 Size and Space for Approach and Use

Appropriate size and space is provided for approach, reach, manipulation, and use regardless of user's body size, posture, or mobility.

Access By Design A Review Of Universal Products:

Universal Access and Assistive Technology Simeon Keates, Patrick Langdon, P. John Clarkson, Peter Robinson, 2013-06-29
The first Cambridge Workshop on Universal Access and Assistive Technology CWUAAT was held at Trinity Hall Cambridge in March 2002. It was inspired by the earlier highly successful Cambridge Workshops on Rehabilitation Robotics organised by the late Robin Jackson. Robin was the founder of Rehabilitation Research at Cambridge which now continues in the Engineering Design Centre within the Department of Engineering led by John Clarkson and Simeon Keates and in the Rainbow Group within the Computer Laboratory led by Peter Robinson. CWUAAT represents the first in a new series of workshops that we are aiming to hold every two years which reflecting the spirit of recent moves to extend the rights for universal accessibility will encourage discussion of a broad range of interests. There will be a general focus on product solution development. Hence it is intended that the principal requirements for the successful design of assistive technology shall be addressed where these range from the identification and capture of the needs of the users through to the development and evaluation of truly usable and accessible systems for users with special needs. The best submissions received for the first CWUAAT are contained in this book where the contributors are all leading researchers in the fields of Universal Access and Assistive Technology and represent a large part of the international research community. They include though not exclusively computer scientists, designers, engineers, industrial representatives, ergonomists and sociologists.

Universal Access. Theoretical Perspectives, Practice, and Experience Noelle Carbonell, European Research Consortium for Informatics and Mathematics, 2003-02-25. This book constitutes the thoroughly refereed post-proceedings of the 7th ERCIM Workshop on User Interfaces for All held in Paris, France, in October 2002. The 40 revised full papers presented were carefully reviewed and selected during two rounds of refereeing and revision. The papers are organized in topical sections on: user interfaces for all accessibility issues; user interfaces for all design and assessment towards an information society for all; novel interaction paradigms; new modalities and dialogue style; novel interaction paradigms; accessibility issues and mobile computing; design and evaluation.

Universal and Accessible Design for Products, Services, and Processes Robert F. Erlandson, 2007-08-03. New laws, global competition, technological advances and evolving societal values toward disability all demand the integration of universal and accessible design principles into the general practice of the design community. This growing international movement forces competitors to expand their traditional concepts of design and adopt these principles.

The Universal Access Handbook Constantine Stephanidis, 2009-06-11. In recent years the field of Universal Access has made significant progress in consolidating theoretical approaches, scientific methods and technologies as well as in exploring new application domains. Increasingly professionals in this rapidly maturing area require a comprehensive and multidisciplinary resource that addresses current principles.
