Performance Measurement in Non-Profit Organizations Patrizia Gazzola, Stefano Amelio, 2022-09-26 Performance Measurement in Non Profit Organizations The Road to Integrated Reporting addresses the issue of performance measurement in nonprofit companies with the aim of defining a system of useful measures to understand manage and improve the performance of such companies by employing systems theory to examine their conditions of existence and manifestations of life From the proposed company model follows that the system of performance measures should make it possible to keep under control both the productive transformation with the physical technical efficiency indicators and the economic transformation with the economic efficiency indicators and the financial transformation with the financial efficiency indicators and finally the managerial transformation with the effectiveness indicators taking into account the degree of satisfaction of the expectations of the main categories of company stakeholders Readers will understand that economic analysis alone is not sufficient to assess the performance of such organizations but it is necessary to unite it with the analysis of sustainability dimensions It would therefore be appropriate to draw up an integrated report that combines the economic and financial dimensions with the pillars of sustainability as in the case of companies in the second sector There is a gap in the literature in this area that this book aims to fill making it a valuable resource to researchers academics and advanced students interested in performance evaluation of NPOs

Non-Governmental Organisations - Performance and Accountability Michael Edwards, David Hulme, 2014-03-18 The last decade has seen some significant changes in international development and in the status of non governmental organisations operating in the field Not only has the number of NGOs virtually doubled many of them have seen a considerable growth in their budgets and have grown closer to governments and official aid agencies NGOs are acknowledged by many to be more effective agents of development than governments or commercial interests even as a magic bullet for development problems Despite these positive trends the real impact of the NGO sector is not well documented This is partly because NGO performance assessment and accountability methods are weak and partly because NGOs are caught up increasingly in the world of official aid which pushes them towards certain forms of evaluation at the expense of others This unique book takes a hard and critical look at these issues and describes how NGOs can and must improve the way they measure and account for their performance if they are to be truly effective

Discretion and Public Benefit in a Regulatory Agency Vijaya Nagarajan, 2013-07-01 This book explores the manner in which a variety of public benefits such as environmental protection and consumer safety have been accommodated through the authorisation process within competition law and policy in Australia While the regulator's use of its discretion can be explained as a triumph of practice over theory this book explores the potential for competition principles to be imbued by the wider discourses of democratic participation and human rights In doing so it makes a significant contribution to the Australian competition policy as well as reconceptualising the way in which discretion is used by regulators a very important and creative contribution to the literatures on both business regulation in general and Australian competition and consumer protection law in particular It pays special attention to an everyday regulatory function that is often ignored in scholarship And it is very important in challenging on both empirical and normative policy oriented grounds a narrowly economic approach to competition law and proposing an alternative understanding and practice for the public benefit test in ACCC authorisations
