Accounting Profession

Positions in the accounting profession can be grouped into different areas. In general, accounting is divided into two areas, namely public accounting and internal accounting. Public accountants (public accountants or external accountants) are accountants who provide their services to serve the needs of the community. The type of work that is usually done by Public Accountants is the examination of financial statements (auditing), assistance in the field of taxation, and management consulting. Internal accountants are accountants who work in a particular company. Internal accountants are very diverse, including accounting in the field of costs, treasurers, controllers, information systems, auditing, taxes, and so on government accountants (governmental accountants) are accountants employed in a government agency. Please note that in self-government in financial management, there are often leaks of state money, therefore the government needs a government accountant who can control the management of state money. D. Accounting fields such as what is described grouping the accounting profession above, then in practice found various fields of accounting work such as: public accounting (public accounting). Examination of financial statements (auditing) is the most important field of work of the accounting profession given to the public (general). The results of the public accountant examination are set forth in a report called The Accountant examination results report. Tax Accounting is a public accounting service that is much needed by the community. The objectives to be achieved with this service provider are (1) to
