Multimedia Technologies and Applications for the 21st Century Visions of World Experts presents contributions from leading researchers and experts describing their current research and their views of the future trends in the field. The book consists of thirteen chapters in five parts. These chapters tackle a number of critical issues in distributed multimedia systems and applications from VLSI processors that support multimedia and multimedia servers through multimedia databases and multimedia networks and communications to merging multimedia applications. Only a few years ago multimedia seemed like a brand new research field and an emerging new industry. Today at the edge of the 21st century multimedia research is coming of age and the multimedia industry has significantly grown with the total market estimated to be about 50 billion. Several years ago it was felt that the digital media revolution had just started, however the seeds had been sown long before. Fundamental technologies such as interactive laser disks, video games and electronic encyclopedias were invented in the 1970s and 80s. They represented the seeds for current hot applications such as digital libraries, video on demand, interactive television and videoconferencing. Another aspect of the digital media revolution is the formation of a new media industry composed of computer entertainment, communication and consumer electronics companies. Many industry segments are currently involved in creating new products and services positioning themselves for the 21st century. They include telephone cable and satellite TV companies, communication equipment companies, TV and radio broadcasters on line, Internet service providers, cable channels, movie studios, record companies, book publishers, CD ROM title creators, Internet tool vendors, multimedia software tools companies, computer companies, general software tools companies, computer add on vendors, semiconductor vendors and consumer electronics vendors. Multimedia Technologies and Applications for the 21st Century Visions of World Experts should stimulate the curiosity of its readers and inspire new technological breakthroughs in this exciting field. It serves as a valuable reference for system designers, engineers, programmers and managers who are involved in multimedia systems, the Internet and their applications. This book can also be used as a textbook for advanced courses on multimedia in engineering curricula. Streaming Media Delivery in Higher Education: Methods and Outcomes Wankel, Charles, Law, J. Sibley, 2011-06-30. This book is both a snapshot of streaming media in higher education as it is today and a window into the many developments already underway forecasting of areas yet to be developed. Provided by publisher. MMS Daniel Ralph, Paul Graham, 2004-04-21. MMS has evolved from the huge popularity of the SMS text service for GSM networks. It is a departure from the transport mechanism used for SMS which is based on the GSM signalling channels to the use of IP to transport messages within the MMS network. To this end MMS has similarities with Internet email and standard IETF protocols. As with any new technology it is difficult to accurately predict the position within the next 5 years although based on previous experience with WAP and SMS it would be fair to say that these protocols will increase in usage over the next 5 years and become legacy for a further 5 years following which users will migrate onto the next wave of messaging Significant revenue growth and data usage is expected to be driven by consumer usage of MMS But MMS technology offers more than just a broadening of message content With MMS it is not only possible to send your multimedia messages from one phone to another but also from phone to email and vice versa This feature dramatically increases the possibilities of mobile communication both for private and corporate use Multimedia messaging will reshape the landscape of mobile communication making it more personal more versatile and more expressive than ever before MMS Is the first book to address how MMS and the use of IP to transport messages will affect existing infrastructure and business models Covers the fundamental changes to mail and billing systems Includes future recommendations such as interoperability and evolution Presents an overview of the MMS technology components Drawing on the authors hands on experience in the implementation of MMS technology developing billing and delivering services at BT this innovative book will appeal to engineering managers network operators market analysts business decision makers content providers and operator organizations
