Dreams in French Literature Tom Conner, 2023-10-16 The nine essays in this volume deal with several well known French authors through the ages for example Descartes Voltaire Mme de Sta l Nerval Verlaine and explore the problematic relationship between dreams and literature Generally speaking contributors are interested in the production of literary meaning How does various dream material ranging from the traditional dream to visions and hallucinations and day dreams come to be And how is the dream image transformed into discourse What exactly is the relationship between dream and narrative Each essay focuses on a different author and different period ranging from the Middle Ages to the late nineteenth century but also takes a unique critical and theoretical approach What the contributors have in common though is an analytical sensemaking strategy that characterizes the interpretation of dreams through the ages from ancients such as Artemidorus and Cicero to modern thinkers such as Freud Most of the texts studied here from the Chanson de Roland to Chateaubriand's Mmoires d'outre tombe lend themselves to this type of approach because they promote narrative unity So too do Voltaire Mme de Sta l Nerval and Verlaine Many if not most texts however in the end turn out to be not quite so tightly knit as one may have supposed at first and in the case of Agrippa d'Aubign and Descartes the reader is in for several surprises when the normal course of events leading from dream to text from signifier to signified is interrupted and subverted

The Raven's Lament Evangeline Thornfield. The carriage wheels clattered against the cobblestones with a rhythm that matched the frantic beating of Eleanor Blackwood's heart. Through the rain-streaked window, she caught her first glimpse of Ravenshollow Manor, a towering edifice of black stone that seemed to claw at the storm-darkened sky. Lightning illuminated its Gothic spires and gargoyle-adorned corners, casting dancing shadows that made the ancient structure appear alive with malevolent intent. Eleanor pulled her woolen cloak tighter around her shoulders as the carriage lurched to a halt before the manor's imposing oak doors. The driver, a grizzled man who had spoken little during their journey from the village, refused to meet her eyes as he handed down her modest trunk. "Are you certain you won't stay the night at the inn, miss?" he asked, his voice barely audible above the howling wind. "These old places, they're not meant for the living after dark." Eleanor squared her shoulders, drawing upon the resolve that had carried her through years of governess positions in households where she was neither family nor servant, but something uncomfortably between. "Thank you for your concern, but I am expected." The advertisement was quite specific about my arrival date. The driver shook his head and climbed back onto his perch without another word Eleanor watched as the carriage disappeared into the mist shrouded moor its lanterns swallowed by the darkness until she stood alone before the manor's threshold The brass knocker was fashioned in the shape of a raven's head its obsidian eyes seeming to follow her movements as she lifted it and let it fall against the door The sound echoed through the night like a death knell and Eleanor found herself counting the seconds until footsteps approached from within
