Brooks,Noelle Witherspoon-Arnold,2013-03-01 Racism and ignorance churn on college campuses as surely as they do in society at large Over the past fifteen years there have been many discussions regarding racism and higher education Some of these focus on formal policies and dynamics such as Affirmative Action or The Dream Act while many more discussions are happening in classrooms dorm rooms and in campus communities Of course corollary to these conversations some of which are generative and some of which are degenerative is a deafening silence around how individuals and institutions can actually understand engage and change issues related to racism in higher education This lack of dialogue and action speaks volumes about individuals and organizations and suggests a complicit acceptance tolerance or even support for institutional and individual racism There is much work to be done if we are to improve the situation around race and race relation in institutions of higher education There is still much work to be done in unpacking and addressing the educational realities of those who are economically socially and politically underserved and oppressed by implicit and overt racism These realities manifest in ways such as lack of access to and within higher education in equitable outcomes and in a disparity of the quality of education as a student matriculates through the system While there are occasional diversity and inclusion efforts made in higher education institutions still largely address them as quotas and not as paradigmatic changes This focus on counting toward equity rather than creating a culture of equity is basically a form of white privilege that allows administrators and policymakers to show incremental progress and avoid more substantive action toward real equity that changes the culture s of institutions with longstanding racial histories that marginalize some and privilege others Issues in higher education are still raced from white perspectives and suffer from a view that race and racism occur in a vacuum Some literature suggests that racism begins very early in the student experience and continues all the way to college Berlak Moyenda This mis education mislabeling and mistreatment based on race often develops as early as five to ten years old and follows them to postgraduate education and beyond

The Antiracist World Language Classroom Krishauna Hines-Gaither,Cécile Accilien,2022-07-29 How can you incorporate antiracist practices into specific subject areas This essential book finally answers that question and offers a clear roadmap for introducing antiracism into the world language classroom Drawing on foundational and cutting edge knowledge of antiracism authors Hines Gaither and Accilien address the following questions what does antiracism look like in the world language classroom why is it vital to implement antiracist practices relevant to your classroom or school and how can you enact antiracist pedagogies and practices that enrich and benefit your classroom or school Aligned with the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages standards the book is filled with hands on antiracist activities strategies and lesson plans The book covers all necessary topics including designing antiracist units of study teaching across proficiency levels advocacy and collaboration in the community and how to facilitate self reflection to become an active antiracist educator The tools prompts and resources in this book are essential for any world language teacher department chair or school leader
