of feature binding Snehlata Jaswal, Feature binding is the process whereby different features such as shape colour size orientation location etc are linked together to form a coherent representation of the object It is a ubiquitous physiological sequence and an essential phase in information processing for it provides the basis of mental representations which in turn are requisite for all cognitive functions It is important to realize though that binding is not an isolated process There are myriad stimuli impinging on our senses at all times vying to gain entry into our consciousness Further not only does sensory input emanate from a complex dynamic environment but it also enters a neural system that is already activated by previous inputs and is oriented towards future goals Which aspects of the momentary sensory input are selected for further processing depends as much on the state of the system as it does on the sensory input itself Indeed some fundamental questions one may ask about binding are whether why and how some features are selected for binding at the cost of others The bottom up view of information processing is that the input received by the brain is processed in a largely automatic way to the higher centers in the brain The physiological basis of binding is postulated to be either conjunctively coding neurons or synchrony among participating neural networks to encode features and out of phase neural activity to encode separate objects But mere perceptual integration of features whether by synchrony or by specialized neurons does not even begin to capture the implication that binding results in coherent objects fundamental for further information processing An object is not only a bundle of features At the very least the features need to be integrated so that the object can be distinguished from other objects This implies selection and manipulation of the basic information supplied by separate features The top down view of information processing contends that binding is more influenced by the reentrant processes the downward and lateral feedback to the lower areas emanating from the higher centers of the brain Reentrant processes not only help to confirm what is correct but also resolve competition These top down processes are linked to attention and higher cognitive functions help select relevant input We aim to debate what happens to the irrelevant information in the process of binding Are irrelevant features simply lost from the system over time or are they deliberately deleted Is there any inhibitory process involved in binding What is the empirical evidence for such a process at the behavioral level Is such a process active and resource demanding or relatively passive and automatic What do neuropsychological studies show What are the physiological underpinnings of such a process How is it incorporated in computational models to increase our understanding of the binding process The idea is to bring together diverse views on Inhibition in Feature Binding with the ultimate aim of better understanding the process of binding and invoking informed and insightful future research Energy Research Abstracts

,1989 IGARSS 2004 ,2004 Drawing for Science Education Phyllis Katz,2017-03-23 This book argues for the essential use of drawing as a tool for science teaching and learning The authors are working in schools universities and continual science learning CSL settings around the world They have written of their experiences using a variety of prompts to encourage people to take pen to paper and draw their thinking sometimes direct observation and in other instances their memories The result is a collection of research and essays that offer theory techniques outcomes and models for the reader Young children have provided evidence of the perceptions that they have accumulated from families and the media before they reach classrooms Secondary students describe their ideas of chemistry and physics Teacher educators use drawings to consider the progress of their undergraduates understanding of science teaching and even their moral ethical responses to teaching about climate change Museum visitors have drawn their understanding of the physics of how exhibit sounds are transmitted A physician explains how the history of drawing has been a critical tool to medical education and doctor patient communications Each chapter contains samples insights and where applicable analysis techniques The chapters in this book should be helpful to researchers and teachers alike across the teaching and learning continuum The sections are divided by the kinds of activities for which drawing has historically been used in science education An instance of observation Audubon Linnaeus A process how plants grow over time what happens when chemicals combine Conceptions of what science is and who does it Images of identity development in science teaching and learning Mental and Neurological Public Health Vikram Patel,Alistair Woodward,Valery Feigin,Stella R. Quah,Kristian Heggenhougen,2010-06-07 Colin Mathers who leads the Global Burden of Disease group in WHO has confirmed that in the 2004 GBD 13 1% of global Daily Adjusted Life Years are attributable to mental or neurological disorders While the proportions vary very widely from about 10% in low income countries to over 25% in high income countries it is clear that there is a need for understanding how to address this issue This volume aims to provide a comprehensive overview of the public health principles of mental and neurological disorders This vast range of health conditions affects people across the life course from developmental disabilities in childhood to schizophrenia and substance abuse in adults and dementia in old age Despite this diversity they all share many features they are mostly mediated through brain dysfunction or abnormalities are often chronic in course typically benefit from multi component interventions and are amongst the most neglected conditions in global health The volume will bring together chapters from the Psychiatry Neurology Substance Abuse and Child Development sections of the Encyclopedia of Public Health The volume will be the first comprehensive text on a public health approach to this diverse group of health conditions and has no obvious competitor Highlights the common features of many mental and neurological disorders Provides insights into potential cross over methods of identification and treatment Includes chapters on the most frequently diagnosed mental and neurological challenges faced by public health systems Continual Improvement: A Bibliography with Indexes, 1992-1993 ,1994 Australian Journal of Experimental Agriculture ,2006 Coral Reefs at the Crossroads Dennis K.

Hubbard, Caroline S. Rogers, Jere H. Lipps, George D. Stanley, Jr., 2016-07-27 In this book contributors from diverse backgrounds take a first step toward an integrated view of reefs and the significance of their recent decline More than any other earth system coral reefs sit at a disciplinary crossroads Most recently they have reached another crossroads fundamental changes in their bio physical structure greater than those of previous centuries or even millennia Effective strategies to mitigate recent trends will require an approach that embraces the myriad perspectives from across the scientific landscape but will also need a mechanism to transform scientific understanding into social will and political implementation
