The Saturday Magazine ,1844 Lincoln's Yarns and Stories Alexander K. McClure,2015-11-27 Dean Swift said that the man who makes two blades of grass grow where one grew before serves well of his kind Considering how much grass there is in the world and comparatively how little fun we think that a still more deserving person is the man who makes many laughs grow where none grew before Sometimes it happens that the biggest crop of laugh is produced by a man who ranks among the greatest and wisest Such a man was Abraham Lincoln whose wholesome fun mixed with true philosophy made thousands laugh and think at the same time He was a firm believer in the saying Laugh and the world laughs with you Whenever Abraham Lincoln wanted to make a strong point he usually began by saying Now that reminds me of a story And when he had told a story every one saw the point and was put into a good humor The ancients had Aesop and his fables The moderns had Abraham Lincoln and his stories Aesop s Fables have been printed in book form in almost every language and millions have read them with pleasure and profit Lincoln s stories were scattered in the recollections of thousands of people in various parts of the country The historians who wrote histories of Lincoln s life remembered only a few of them but the most of Lincoln s stories and the best of them remained unwritten More than five years ago the author of this book conceived the idea of collecting all the yarns and stories the droll sayings and witty and humorous anecdotes of Abraham Lincoln into one large book and this volume is the result of that idea The Saturday Magazine.
