

Lesson 3 – Agrarian Reform from the Spanish Colonial Philippines to the Present

Objectives:

At the end of this lesson, you will be able to:

1. familiarize key concepts of Land and Agrarian reform;
2. identify the Republic Acts about the Agrarian and Land Reform;
3. differentiate the Agrarian reform from the different administration: Pres. Ferdinand Marcos, Pres. Cory Aquino, Pres. Rodrigo Duterte ;

Introduction

LAND REFORM has gained great significance all over the world as it aims to achieve social justice and full development of human dignity. Throughout time, the issue of land reform has been persistent, demanding measures to stop social unrest. Worst scenarios were observed during the colonial era when the Spanish colonizers introduced new land-holding systems to caciques. The introduction of Torrens system created serious inhabitants lost their ancestral domains to the colonialists.

The poor economic and social conditions of the peasants in the Philippines need immediate agrarian reform measures by the Philippine government.

Activity 1 Choose the correct word inside the box from the given definition.

Encamienda	maharlikas
aliping namamahay	encomenderos
aliping saguiguilid

Encamienda 1. A system of giving lands (Royal Land Grants) to the Spanish conquerors that were loyal to the Spanish monarch.

Maharlikas 2. It means freemen.

encomenderos 3. It is termed to a person who must defend his encomienda from external attack, maintain peace and order within, and supports the missionaries.

Analysis

1. What is Agrarian Reform and Land Reform?
Agrarian reform can refer either, narrowly, to government-initiated or government-backed redistribution of agricultural land (see land reform) or, broadly, to an overall redirection of the agrarian system of the country, which often includes land reform measures.
2. How the two (Agrarian Reform and Land Reform) differ from each other?
Under his leadership, the President wants to pursue an "aggressive" land reform program that would help alleviate the life of poor Filipino farmers by prioritizing the provision of support services alongside land distribution.

The Kansas-Nebraska Cattle Feedlot Industry ,1970 Reluctant Revolutionaries Joseph S. Tiedemann,2018-05-31

The question of why New Yorkers were such reluctant revolutionaries has long bedeviled historians. In an innovative study of New York City between 1763 and 1776, Joseph S. Tiedemann explains how conscientiously residents labored to build a consensus under difficult circumstances. New Yorkers acted the way they did not because they were mostly loyalist or because a few patrician conservatives were able to stem the tide of revolution, but because the population of their city was so heterogeneous that consensus was not easily achieved. Differences within the city's pluralistic population slowed the process of hammering out a course of action acceptable to the large majority. The consensus that finally emerged had to be cautious rather than militant in order to unite as many people as possible behind the revolutionary banner. Ultimately, the time it took was far less significant, Tiedemann notes, than the fact that New York proceeded to declare independence and went on to become a pivotal state in the new nation. In framing his argument, Tiedemann explains the limitations of interpretations offered by both progressive New Left and consensus historians. Citing the work of scholars as diverse as Walter Laqueur, Theda Skocpol, and Louis Kreisberg, Tiedemann pays close attention to the dynamics of British colonial rule and its impact on New York.

Building a Revolutionary State Howard Pashman, 2018-05-03 How does a popular uprising transform itself from the disorder of revolution into a legal system that carries out the daily administration required to govern? Americans faced this question during the Revolution as colonial legal structures collapsed under the period's disorder. Yet by the end of the war, Americans managed to rebuild their courts and legislatures, imbuing such institutions with an authority that was widely respected. This remarkable transformation came about in unexpected ways. Howard Pashman here studies the surprising role played by property redistribution, seizing it from Loyalists and transferring it to supporters of independence in the reconstruction of legal order during the Revolutionary War. Building a Revolutionary State looks closely at one state, New York, to understand the broader question of how legal structures emerged from an insurgency. By examining law as New Yorkers experienced it in daily life during the war, Pashman reconstructs a world of revolutionary law that prevailed during America's transition to independence. In doing so, Pashman explores a central paradox of the revolutionary era: aggressive enforcement of partisan property rules actually had stabilizing effects that allowed insurgents to build legal institutions that enjoyed popular support. Tracing the transformation from revolutionary disorder to legal order, Building a New Revolutionary State gives us a radically fresh way to understand the emergence of new states.

Colonists from Scotland Ian Charles Cargill Graham, 2009-06 This distinguished monograph is a treatise on the causes and character of Scottish emigration to North America prior to the American Revolution. Entire chapters are then devoted to Lowland and Highland emigration, forced transportation of felons, and the drafting of Scottish troops to the colonies, rising rents, and other factors in the Scottish social structure and the British government's role in colonization. Three concluding chapters cover the geographical centers of Scottish settlement, especially the Carolinas.

authoritative overview of Latin America's human geography and regional complexity. It traces Latin America's historical developments while revealing the diversity of its people and places. Coverage encompasses cultural history, environment and physical geography, urban development, agriculture and land use, social and economic processes, and the contemporary patterns of Latin American diaspora. Publisher description: Fast Track Land Occupations in Zimbabwe Kirk Helliker, Sandra Bhatasara, Manase Kudzai Chiweshe, 2021-01-11. This book offers the first detailed scholarly examination of the nation-wide land occupations which spread across the Zimbabwean countryside from the year 2000 and led to the state's fast track land reform programme. In an innovative way, it highlights the decentralized character of the occupations by recognizing significant spatial variation around a number of key themes, including historical memory, modes of mobilization and gender. A case study of the land occupations in Mashonaland Central Province, based on original research, adds empirical weight to the argument. In further identifying and understanding the specificities and complexities of the land occupations, the book also frames them by way of a nuanced comparative historical analysis of the three chimurenga. It thus examines the land occupations referred to, likely controversially, as the third chimurenga, with reference to the original anti-colonial revolt from the 1890s, the first chimurenga, and the war of liberation in the 1970s, the second chimurenga. Further, the book engages critically with the ruling party's chimurenga narrative and the hegemonic understanding of the land occupations within Zimbabwean studies. This book is a crucial read for all scholars and students of post-2000 land and politics in Zimbabwe, but also for those more broadly interested in historical comparative analyses of land struggles in Zimbabwe and beyond. The Enterprising Admiral Julian Gwyn, 1974. The hope of prize money was the chief inducement in the eighteenth century for the men of the Royal Navy to hazard their lives at sea. Yet until now the matter has largely been ignored by historians. This analysis of Vice Admiral Peter Warren's fortune, which largely derived from prize money, is the first study of its kind. Although Warren married into the well-to-do New York merchant family of the DeLanceys, his wealth began chiefly with the capture of French merchant ships and warships at Louisbourg in 1745 and in 1747 after the defeat of the French fleet off the coast of Spain. Warren invested in America, Ireland and England. He bought land, loaned money, invested in the London stock market and dabbled in trade. In America, his land purchases and money-lending activities were concentrated in New York and New England, with some interests in South Carolina. In Ireland, his first concern was the recovery of his family's estate in County Meath and the purchases of other nearby properties. In England, he concentrated his land purchases in Hampshire while investing heavily in the government's wartime debt, the stock of the great trading and insurance companies and in private mortgages and bonds. Of special interest is the international character of his investments, which adds a new dimension to the economic history of the Atlantic region. Of particular importance also is his rise in status through wealth from the declining Catholic gentry of Ireland into which he had been born to become MP for the City of Westminster, which invariably returned men of the highest social standing. His wealth, after his early death in 1752, also enabled his daughters to marry into the nobility The effects of the American Revolution and the 1798 Irish uprising hastened the repatriation of his assets to England where his aristocratic heirs were content with a more modest return on Warren's capital which by then exceeded a quarter of a million pounds sterling

Agro-industrial Labour in Kenya Gerda Kuiper, 2019-05-21 This ethnography analyses labour relations within the export oriented cut flower industry at Lake Naivasha in Kenya Though this agro industry has attracted critical attention from journalists and non governmental organizations this book is the first comprehensive social scientific analysis of the industry's labour arrangements and production processes Gerda Kuiper here interprets the work on the farms as agro industrial labour a labour system characterized by high levels of discipline and a strict rhythm of work due to the demands posed by a highly perishable agricultural product This framework enables the author to draw on insights from a wide range of anthropological and sociological studies on agro industrial wage labour around the globe This mixed methods approach deployed alongside rich ethnographic detail allows the author to center the flower farm workers in her analysis

Capitalism and Agrarian Change Muchtar Habibi, 2022-11-17 Small scale agricultural producers in the peripheral world are often condescendingly assumed to be a single social class the peasantry to be pitted against the state or corporation This book challenges this rather idealistic view by demonstrating that under current capitalist social relations competition efficiency and productivity and profit maximisation these agricultural producers have been differentiated into different agrarian classes by exploitation By comparing two different contexts of local agrarian change in Indonesia rice cultivation in Java and oil palm in Sumatra this book exposes the different class locations of the agrarian classes among petty agricultural producers and the class relations between them These are often inextricably linked to gender clanship and generational issues The power of class dynamics crucially shapes how agricultural production in both rice and oil palm is organised The share received by different agrarian classes from the production site then prominently shapes the different nature of class reproduction for each agrarian class This analysis demonstrates that the different agrarian classes possess different capacities and responses in their relation to the state or corporations Any real emancipation attempt in the Indonesian countryside and beyond must start from a proper understanding of these class dynamics This book marks a significant contribution to the literature on agrarian change the political economy of development rural development and Marxist political economy
