Agrarian Reform and Peasant Economy in Southern Peru David Guillet, 1979 Social and cultural anthropology monograph on rural workers participation in the tupac amaru ii agricultural cooperative formed as part of the 1969 agrarian reform in the pampa de anta rural area of southern Peru gives information on the rural community s pre reform demographic aspects economic policy and social structure household and collective agricultural production etc Examines peasant decision making and social participation obstacles Bibliography pp 213 to 222 map photographs and statistical tables Ugly Stories of the Peruvian Agrarian Reform Enrique Mayer, 2009-10-30 Uses oral histories to analyze Peruvian agrarian reform carried out by the left leaning military government of Juan Velasco Alvarado between 1969 and 1999 highlighting struggles to dismantle models of social experimentation after disillusion with the fai

Peasant Cooperatives and Political Change in Peru Cynthia McClintock, 2014-07-14 This is the first study to apply to the topics of workplace democracy or change in political culture both before and after sample survey data as well as long term participant observation Originally published in 1981 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

The Peasant Betrayed John H. Powelson, Richard Stock, 1990-07-01 After studying land reform in 16 countries and offering illustrative examples from 11 more Powelson and Stock conclude that government land reforms generally harm the rural poor more than help them Detailing case after case in which government intervention has impoverished the peasant the authors find only a few cases in which the government has made the peasant better off In contrast they show that in Third World countries where the state has left farming to the farmer agricultural output has soared famine has been overcome and the welfare of the peasant has vastly improved

Development and the Environmental Crisis Michael Redclift, 2010-11-26 First published in 1984 Michael Redclift s book makes the global environmental crisis a central concern of political economy and its structural causes a central concern of environmentalism Michael Redclift argues that a close analysis of the environmental crisis in the South reveals the importance of the share of resources obtained by different social groups The development strategies based on the experiences and interests of Western capitalist countries fail to recognise that environmental degradation in the South is a product of inequalities in both global and local economic relations and cannot be solved simply by applying solutions borrowed from environmentalism in the North The key to understanding the South s environmental problems lies in the recognition that structural processes markets technology state intervention are also a determining influence upon the way natural resources are used Through his review of Europe s Green Movement contemporary breakthroughs in biotechnology and information systems and recent feminist discourse Michael Redclift has enlarged the compass of the environmental debate and produced a book which should serve as a benchmark in future discussions of development and the environment It will be of importance to students in a range of disciplines within development studies geography ecology and the social sciences A Companion to Latin American Anthropology Deborah Poole, 2015-12-21 Comprised of 24 newly commissioned chapters this defining reference volume on Latin America introduces English language readers to the debates traditions and sensibilities that have shaped the study of this diverse region Contributors include some of the most prominent figures in Latin American and Latin Americanist anthropology Offers previously unpublished work from Latin America scholars that has been translated into English explicitly for this volume Includes overviews of national anthropologies in Mexico Cuba Peru Argentina Ecuador Bolivia Colombia and Brazil and is also topically focused on new research Draws on original ethnographic and archival research Highlights national and regional debates Provides a vivid sense of how anthropologists often combine intellectual and political work to address the pressing social and cultural issues of Latin America Field Systems and Farming Systems in Late Medieval England Bruce M.S. Campbell, 2023-05-31 The later Middle Ages was an overwhelmingly rural world with probably three out of four households reliant upon farming for a living Yet conventional accounts of the period rarely do justice to the variety of ways in which the land was managed and worked The thirteen essays collected in this volume draw upon the abundant documentary evidence of the period to explore that diversity In the process they engage with the issue of classification without which effective generalisation is impossible and offer a series of solutions to that particularly thorny methodological challenge Only through systematic and objective classification is it possible to differentiate between and map different field systems husbandry types and land use categories That in turn makes it possible to consider and evaluate the relative roles of soils and topography institutional structures and commercialised market demand in shaping farm enterprise both during the period of mounting population before the Black Death and the long era of demographic decline that followed it What emerges is an agrarian world more commercialised differentiated and complex than is usually appreciated whose institutional and agronomic contours shaped the course of agricultural development for centuries to come Peasants on the Edge William P. Mitchell, 2010-07-05 Throughout Latin America and the rest of the Third World profound social problems are growing in response to burgeoning populations and unstable economic and political systems In Peru terrorist acts by the Shining Path guerilla movement are the most visible manifestation of social discontent but rapid economic and religious changes have touched the lives of almost everyone radically altering traditional lifeways In this twenty year study of the community of Quinua in the Department of Ayacucho William Mitchell looks at changes provoked by population growth within a severely limited ecological and economic setting including increasing conversion to a cash economy and out migration the decline of the Catholic fiesta system and the rise of Protestantism and growing poverty and revolution When Mitchell first began his field studies in Quinua in 1966 farming was still the Quinua's principal means of livelihood But while the population was increasing rapidly the amount of arable land in the community remained the same creating increased food shortfalls At the same time government controls on food prices and subsidies of cheap food imports drove down the value of rural farm production These ecological and economic factors forced many people to enter the nonfarm economy to feed themselves Using a materialist approach Mitchell charts the new economic strategies that Quinua use to confront the harsh pressures of their lives including ceramic production wage labor petty commerce and migration to cash work on the coast and in the eastern tropical forests In addition he shows how the growing conversion from Catholicism to Protestantism is also an economic strategy since Protestant ideology offers acceptable reasons for redirecting the money that used to be spent on elaborate religious festivals to household needs and education The twenty year span of this study makes it especially valuable for students of social change Mitchell s unique interdisciplinary approach considering ecological economic and population factors simultaneously offers a model that can be widely applied in many Third World areas Additionally the inclusion of an entire chapter of family histories reveals how economic and ecological forces are played out at the individual level

Peasant Studies ,1981 The Andean World Linda J. Seligmann,Kathleen S. Fine-Dare,2018-11-08 This comprehensive reference offers an authoritative overview of Andean lifeways It provides valuable historical context and demonstrates the relevance of learning about the Andes in light of contemporary events and debates The volume covers the ecology and pre Columbian history of the region and addresses key themes such as cosmology aesthetics gender and household relations modes of economic production exchange and consumption postcolonial legacies identities political organization and movements and transnational interconnections With over 40 essays by expert contributors that highlight the breadth and depth of Andean worlds this is an essential resource for students and scholars alike Between Reform and Revolution Linda J. Seligmann,1995 This is the story of one of the most ambitious agrarian reforms in Latin American history The book argues that the economic political and cultural dynamics set in motion by the reforms are central to understanding the brutal civil war that ensued in Peru between the state and the Maoist Leninist Shining Path guerilla movement Small Ruminant Production--systems for Sustainability Harvey D. Blackburn,1991 Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology Wallace C. Olsen,1991 The first of an eight volume series The Literature of the Agricultural Sciences this book analyzes the trends in the published literature of agricultural economics and rural sociology during the past fifty years It uses citation analysis and other bibliometric techniques to identify the primary journals report series and monographs of current importance to the developed industrial countries as well as those in the Third World Potato diversity at height de Haan, S.,2009 ELISA tests were conducted for APMoV PLRV PMTV PVY and PVX By Other Means Jaymie Patricia Heilman,2006 Kinship Ideology and Practice in Latin America Raymond Thomas Smith,1984 In this volume an international group of anthropologists and historians examines the complex relationships between family life culture and economic change in Latin America and the Caribbean Dissatisfied with interpretations based on European experience Neoliberal Reform in

Machu Picchu Pellegrino A. Luciano, 2017-11-01 As Latin America completes its second decade of neoliberal reforms Pellegrino A Luciano takes readers on an ethnographic journey back to a moment of monumental social and economic change in Peru In Neoliberal Reform in Machu Picchu Luciano describes the privatization struggles and challenges of people living in the district of Machu Picchu a heritage area and tourism destination during the early 2000s This Incan citadel became central to the Peruvian government's neoliberal policies and efforts to project a new global image and attract foreign capital Luciano analyzes the role of middle class actors in consequence resistance and accommodation to these neoliberal changes This book is recommended for scholars of anthropology political science economics tourism studies and history

PILGRIMS OF THE ANDES Michael J. Sallnow, 1987-10-17 The Language of the Inka since the European Invasion Bruce Mannheim, 2013-08-26 The Inka empire Tawantinsuyu fell to Spanish invaders within a year's time 1532 1533 but Quechua the language of the Inka is still the primary or only language of millions of Inka descendants throughout the southern Andes In this innovative study Bruce Mannheim synthesizes all that is currently known about the history of Southern Peruvian Quechua since the Spanish invasion providing new insights into the nature of language change in general into the social and historical contexts of language change and into the cultural conditioning of linguistic change Mannheim first discusses changes in the social setting of language use in the Andes from the time of the first European contact in the sixteenth century until today He reveals that the modern linguistic homogeneity of Spanish and Quechua is a product of the Spanish conquest since multilingualism was the rule in the Inka empire He identifies the social and political forces that have influenced the kinds of changes the language has undergone And he provides the first synthetic history of Southern Peruvian Quechua making it possible at last to place any literary document or written text in a chronological and social context Mannheim also studies changes in the formal structure of Quechua He finds that changes in the sound system were motivated primarily by phonological factors and also that the changes were constrained by a set of morphological and syntactic conditions This last conclusion is surprising since most historical linguists assume that sound change is completely independent of other aspects of language Thus The Language of the Inka since the European Invasion makes an empirical contribution to a general theory of linguistic change Written in an engaging style that is accessible to the nonlinguist this book will have a special appeal to readers interested in the history and anthropology of native South America The Cultural Dimension of Development Dennis M. Warren, Leendert Jan Slikkerveer, David Brokensha, Wim Decherling, 1995 The potential of indigenous knowledge is being recognized for international development This book argues that local people do know their environment and that this knowledge has to be taken into account in planning and implementing accessible and effective development
