Die Agrarkrise Im Überblick Philipp Berner, 2012 Studienarbeit aus dem Jahr 2007 im Fachbereich Geschichte Europa und Länderr Mittelalter Frühe Neuzeit Note 2,3 Friedrich Schiller Universität Jena Historisches Institut Veranstaltung 14 Quellen im Literaturverzeichnis Sprache Deutsch Abstract Selten wurden Quellen zu einem so wichtigen aber irgendwie nicht greifbaren Abschnitt spätmittelalterlicher Geschichte so heftig diskutiert wie jene welche sich mit der Zeit nach der großen Pest von 1348 bis 1351 beschäftigen Wilhelm Abel gab diesem Abschnitt den Namen Agrarkrise und prägte mit seiner Theorie dass die Pest eine spätmittelalterliche Agrarkrise oder wie er es später selbst nannte Agrardepression mit ausgelöst hatte eine ganze Generation von Historikern War das Material welches Abel gesammelt hatte doch umfangreich und die Schlüsse welche er daraus gezogen hat in weiten Strecken nachvollziehbar Immer mehr Autoren aber zeigen dass man nicht von einem allumfassenden Krisenphänomen sprechen kann Abels Material erstreckt sich zum einen über einen zu langen Zeitraum und ist dabei gleichzeitig zu grob auch fehlen lokale Studien wie sie etwa Ursula Hauschild am Beispiel Rostocks erstellt hat Tatsache ist dass eine Reihe von im Vergleich zu Abel jungen Autoren neue Erkenntnisse hervorgebracht hat und zum Teil auch alte Materialien anders deutet Das alles macht es notwendig sich mit dem Thema Agrarkrise ihrer Existenz oder eben Nichtexistenz sowie ihrem Verhältnis zur Pest zu befassen diese Arbeit wird ein paar der renommierten Forschungsstandpunkte vorstellen und diese auch teilweise in Bezug zu einander bringen um so eventuelle Schwachpunkte in der Argumentation aufzuzeigen Abschließend wird aus den gewonnenen Erkenntnissen ein Fazit gezogen welches zusammenfassend eine mögliche Deutung der wirtschaftlichen Ereignisse der Zeit nach der Pest darstellt Sozial- und Wirtschaftsgeschichte Günther Schulz, 2005 Agrarkrisen und Agrarkonjunktur in Mitteleuropa vom 13. bis zum 19. Climatic Variability in Sixteenth-Century Europe and Its Social Dimension Christian Pfister, Rudolf Brázdil, Rüdiger Glaser, 2013-03-14 A multidecadal cooling is known to have occurred in Europe in the final decades of the sixteenth century It is still open to debate as to what might have caused the underlying shifts in atmospheric circulation and how these changes affected societies This book is the fruit of interdisciplinary cooperation among 37 scientists including climatologists hydrologists glaciologists dendroclimatologists and economic and cultural historians The known documentary climatic evidence from six European countries is compared to results of tree ring studies Seasonal temperature and precipitation are estimated from this data and monthly mean surface pressure patterns in the European area are reconstructed for outstanding anomalies Results are compared to fluctuations of Alpine glaciers and to changes in the frequency of severe floods and coastal storms Moreover the impact of climate change on grain prices and wine production is assessed Finally it is convincingly argued that witches at that time were burnt as scapegoats for climatic change

The Complete History of the Black Death Ole Jørgen Benedictow, 2021 Completely revised and updated for this new edition Benedictow's acclaimed study remains the definitive account of the Black Death and its impact on history. The first edition of The Black Death collected and analysed the many local studies on the disease published in a variety of languages and examined a range of scholarly papers. The medical and epidemiological characteristics of the disease, its geographical origin, its spread across Asia Minor, the Middle East, North Africa and Europe, and the mortality in the countries and regions for which there are satisfactory studies are clearly presented and thoroughly discussed. The pattern, pace and seasonality of spread revealed through close scrutiny of these studies exactly reflect current medical work and standard studies on the epidemiology of bubonic plague. Benedictow's findings made it clear that the true mortality rate was far higher than had been previously thought. In the light of those findings, the discussion in the last part of the book showing the Black Death as a turning point in history takes on a new significance. OLE J BENEDICTOW is Professor of History at the University of Oslo.

Productive Men, Reproductive Women Marion W. Gray, 2000. The debate on the origins of modern gender norms continues unabated across the academic disciplines. This book adds an important and hitherto neglected dimension. Focusing on rural life and its values, the author argues that the modern ideal of separate spheres originated in the era of the Enlightenment. Prior to the eighteenth century, cultural norms prescribed active interdependent economic roles for both women and men. Enlightenment economists transformed these gender paradigms as they postulated a market exchange system directed exclusively by men. By the early nineteenth century, the emerging bourgeois value system affirmed the new civil society and the market place as exclusively male realms. These standards defined women's options largely as marriage and motherhood.

The 'Mother of all Trades' Milja van Tielhof, 2021-12-28. In the early modern period, the Dutch called the grain trade on the Baltic the mother of all trades as they considered it to be the basis of most of their trade and shipping and indeed the cornerstone of the Dutch economy. For a very long time, the mass grain exports from the Baltic were dominated by the Dutch and Amsterdam was the central entrepôt from which the grain was distributed over the Dutch hinterland and the rest of Europe. This book aims to present a general history of the mother of all trades and particularly shows the fundamental importance for transaction costs, including the costs for transport, insurance and protection, the quality of the local services sector in Amsterdam, the influence of monetary and mercantile policies and the efficiency of trade organization.

Strategies, Dispositions and Resources of Social Resilience Martin Endress, Lukas Clemens, Benjamin Rampp, 2020-04-24. The concept of resilience, which originally emerged in psychology, has spread to numerous disciplines and was further developed particularly in social ecology. Resilience experiences an ongoing growing reception in the humanities and historical and social sciences as well, including heterogenic approaches on how to conceptually frame resilience. Common to these approaches is that resilience becomes topical in the context of analysing phenomena and processes of the resistibility of certain socio-historical units or actors which are perceived as being faced with various constellations of disruptive change. In this context, resilience is not only taken to mean the opposite of vulnerability but at the same time, resilience and vulnerability are understood as complementary concepts From this perspective vulnerability is a necessary condition of resilience and vice versa Against this background the present volume provides a preliminary appraisal of socio scientific and historical resilience research by assembling contributions of authors originating from different disciplines Thus it fosters an interdisciplinary discussion on the theoretical and analytical potentials as well as the empirical applicability of the concept of resilience

The Crisis of the 14th Century Martin Bauch, Gerrit Jasper Schenk, 2019-12-16 Pre modern critical interactions of nature and society can best be studied during the so called Crisis of the 14th Century While historiography has long ignored the environmental framing of historical processes and scientists have over emphasized nature's impact on the course of human history this volume tries to describe the at times complex modes of the late medieval relationship of man and nature The idea of teleconnection borrowed from the geosciences describes the influence of atmospheric circulation patterns often over long distances It seems that there were teleconnections in society too So this volume aims to examine man environment interactions mainly in the 14th century from all over Europe and beyond It integrates contributions from different disciplines on impact perception and reaction of environmental change and natural extreme events on late Medieval societies For humanists from all historical disciplines it offers an approach how to integrate written and even scientific evidence on environmental change in established and new fields of historical research For scientists it demonstrates the contributions scholars from the humanities can provide for discussion on past environmental changes
