Agreements For Arms Control A Critical Survey:

Agreements for Arms Control Jozef Goldblat, Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, 2020-11-19 Originally published in 1982 this is the most comprehensive handbook on arms control ever published It contains an analysis of the bilateral and multilateral agreements reached since World War II An assessment is made of the extent to which each agreement has affected the arms race reduced the likelihood of war or otherwise contributed to the overall goal of disarmament Ongoing arms control negotiations are also analyzed The complex problem of verification of compliance with arms control obligations is critically examined and the shortcomings of the existing arrangements are pointed out The critique is searching objective and free of the usual biases of official government reports The analysis of the arms control agreements is preceded by an historical overview beginning with the Hague Peace Conferences held at the turn of this century through the League of Nations attempts to bring about a universal reduction of armaments to the activities of the United Nations in the field of arms regulation and general disarmament The present arms control negotiating machinery is described The texts of the relevant documents are reproduced for handy reference and the status of the implementation of the most important multilateral arms control agreements is presented in tabular form Tables and figures facilitate the reading The Arms Control, Disarmament, and Military Security Dictionary Jeffrey M. Avenhaus, Reiner K. Huber, John D. Kettelle, 2012-12-06 This book presents the results of an international workshop on Modelling and Analysis of Arms Control Problems held in Spitzingsee near Munich in October 1985 under the joint sponsorship of NATO's Scientific Affairs Division and the Volkswagen Foundation The idea for this workshop evolved in 1983 as a consequence of discussions in the annual Systems Science Seminar at the Computer Science Department of the Federal Armed Forces University Munich on the topic of Quantitative Assessment in Arms Control 1 There was wide agreement among the contributors to that seminar and its participants that those efforts to assess the potential contributions of systems and decision sciences as well as systems analysis and mathematical modelling to arms control issues should be expanded and a forum should be provided for this activity It was further agreed that such a forum should include political scientists and policy analysts working in the area of arms control Armament, Arms Control and Artificial Intelligence Thomas

Reinhold, Niklas Schörnig, 2022-10-08 Looking at a variety of armament sectors the book examines how Artificial Intelligence AI impacts the fields of armament and arms control how existing arms control measures will be affected by AI and what new approaches based on AI have been or are currently developed The significant increase in computing power the increasing reliance on software and the advent of narrow AI and deep learning algorithms all have the potential to lead to disruptive changes for military operations and warfare rendering many classical arms control instruments less effective or even useless On the other hand AI might lead to completely new arms control approaches raising the effectiveness and reliability of new verification measures To provide a common understanding the book starts by presenting a general introduction to the state of the art in artificial intelligence and arms control and how the two topics are interrelated The second part of the book looks at examples from various fields of weapon technology including weapons of mass destruction WMD conventional armament and emerging technologies The final section offers a cross cutting perspective based on the examples presented in the second part This volume will appeal to students and scholars of international relations as well as policy makers and practitioners interested in a better understanding of peace and security studies in general and armament and arms control in particular with a strong focus on AI

Arms Control Agreements Jozef Goldblat, 2021-01-26 This book first published in 1982 provides a well informed historical overview insightful analysis and searching critique of arms control agreements and negotiations from the Hague Declaration of 1899 to the SALT Treaties and Conventions of the 1970s and 1980s Arms control agreements of international importance and historical merit are assessed for the extent to which each affected the arms race or reduced the likelihood of war

International Law, Politics, and Inhumane Weapons Alan Bryden, 2013 This book contributes to contemporary debates on the effectiveness of international humanitarian law IHL in regulating or prohibiting inhumane weapons such as landmines Two treaties have emerged under IHL in response to the humanitarian scourge of landmines However despite a considerable body of related literature clear understandings have not been established on the effectiveness of these international legal frameworks in meeting the challenges that prompted their creation This book seeks to address this lacuna An analytical framework grounded in regime theory helps move beyond the limitations in the current literature through a structured focus on principles norms rules procedures actors and issue areas On the one hand this clarifies how political considerations determine opportunities and constraints in designing and implementing IHL regimes On the other it enables us to explore how and why ideal policy prescriptions are threatened when faced with complex challenges in post conflict contexts This book will be of much interest to students of international humanitarian law global governance human security and IR in general

Mobilizing for Human Rights Beth A. Simmons, 2009-08-31 This volume argues that international human rights law has made a positive contribution to the realization of human rights in much of the world Although governments sometimes ratify human rights treaties gambling that they will experience little pressure to comply with them this is not typically the case Focusing on rights stakeholders rather than the United Nations or state pressure Beth

Simmons demonstrates through a combination of statistical analyses and case studies that the ratification of treaties leads to better rights practices on average Simmons argues that international human rights law should get more practical and rhetorical support from the international community as a supplement to broader efforts to address conflict development and democratization

Fieldhouse, Shunji Taoka, 1989 The arms race at sea is a dangerous nuclear race which is causing growing international concern and must be brought under control What are the hard facts about the situation This book documents the realities of the competition especially the nuclearization of naval forces and dispels some of the myths surrounding the naval arms race This incisive analysis of naval forces of the East and West concludes that contrary to common perceptions the US and its allies have a considerable military advantage over the Soviet Navy a trend which is expected to continue for the foreseeable future The authors describe in detail the widespread nuclearization of naval forces of all five nuclear navies analyse the implications for security and arms control and conclude with suggestions for possible arms control measures

From Environmental to Comprehensive Security Arthur H. Westing, 2013-07-01 This work presents the evolution of the traditional concept of national security as military security to additionally embrace environmental security and then necessarily also social societal security thence to be termed comprehensive human security It accomplishes this primarily by presenting 11 of the author's own benchmark papers published between 1983 and 2010 additionally providing bibliographic citations to a further 36 of the author's related publications during that period The work stresses the importance of transfrontier regional cooperation and also recognizes global overpopulation as a key impediment to achieving comprehensive human security

Security at Sea Stockholm International Peace Research Institute, 1990 Since the Second World War five navies are known to have acquired nuclear weapons and naval forces and activities around the world have become increasingly important and dangerous. However, there has been no serious consideration of naval arms control for more than forty years. SIPRI gathered together a group of experts from eight nations to consider the problems of naval forces and the possibilities for arms control. This book is a product of that conference and it presents for the first time a broad and detailed assessment of the dangers of the naval arms race, problems with arms control, possible approaches, confidence building measures, and verification technologies.

European Security in the 1990s W. Laqueur, L. Sloss, 2013-11-11. Rarely if ever have the political, economic, and military foundations of the Western Alliance been in such a state of flux. Walter Laqueur and Leon Sloss therefore deserve credit not just for the quality of the analysis in this superb book but also for the timeliness of its appearance. As Laqueur says in his chapter 'Touring the Western European Defense Horizon', if the likely development of European defense policies is not particularly reassuring, at least it gives no grounds for despair. The list of problems we face is a daunting one. First, there is the spiralling cost of defense expenditures, particularly in the absence of significant NATO or inter-European cooperation. This is particularly serious in light of the reluctance to increase or even maintain current expenditures in the midst of Mikhail Gorbachev's peace offensive and the extraordinary changes in Eastern Europe, both of which have had a dramatic impact on Western public opinion. There is also a problem in the perceived relative economic decline of the United States vis-à-vis Western Europe and Japan, which only exacerbates calls to reduce the number of American troops in Europe. Other dangers to the political cohesion and military credibility of the alliance include demographic trends that threaten current manpower levels, transatlantic acrimony over the burden sharing issue, and political pressures, particularly in West Germany, toward denuclearization and even neutralism.

Asia, Militarization & Regional Conflict Yoshikazu Sakamoto, 1988. The Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty Ian Bellamy, Coit D. Blacker, Joseph Gallacher, 2014-05-01. This study looks at the interpretations and effects of the Nuclear Non Proliferation Treaty and offers readings of its possible future effects.

Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, 1982-06. The Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists is the premier public resource on scientific and technological developments that impact global security. Founded by Manhattan Project Scientists, the Bulletin's iconic Doomsday Clock stimulates solutions for a safer world.

New Technologies and the Law in War and Peace William H. Boothby, 2019. Explains how existing and proposed law seek to tackle challenges posed by new and emerging technologies in war and peace.

Routledge Library Editions: Political Protest Various, 2022-07-30. This 26 volume set is a wide ranging time and subject spanning examination of the phenomenon of political protest.
