Production Fakhri A. Bazzaz, Wim G. Sombroek, 1996-01-01 Climate Change and Agriculture Robert O. Mendelsohn, Ariel Dinar, 2009-01-01 The specific focus of this seminal work is on the economic impact of climate change on agriculture world wide and how faced with the resultant environmental alterations agriculture might adapt under varied and varying conditions Enhanced with a detailed and comprehensive index Climate Change and Agriculture is highly recommended for academic library environmental studies and economic studies reference collections and supplemental reading lists The Midwest Book Review Despite its great importance there are surprisingly few economic studies of the impact of climate on agriculture and how agriculture can adapt under a variety of conditions This book examines 22 countries across four continents including both developed and developing economies It provides both a good analytical basis for additional work and solid results for policy debate concerning income distributional effects such as abatement adaptation and equity Agriculture and grazing are a central sector in the livelihood of many people particularly in developing countries This book uses the Ricardian method to examine the impact of climate change on agriculture It also quantifies how farmers adapt to climate The findings suggest that agriculture in developing countries is more sensitive to climate than agriculture in developed countries Rain fed cropland is generally more sensitive to warming than irrigated cropland and cropland is more sensitive than livestock The adaptation to climate change results reveal that farmers make many adjustments including switching crops and livestock species adopting irrigation and moving between livestock and crops The results also reveal that impacts and adaptations vary a great deal across landscapes suggesting that adaptation policies must be location specific Finally the book suggests a research agenda for the future Economists in academia and the public sector policy analysts and development agencies will find this broad study illuminating

World Agriculture and Climate Change Roy Darwin,1995 Recent studies suggest that possible global increases in temperature and changes in precipitation patterns during the next century will affect world agriculture Because of the ability of farmers to adapt however these changes are not likely to imperil world food production Nevertheless world production of all goods and services may decline if climate change is severe enough or if cropland expansion is hindered Impacts are not equally distributed around the world

The Economic Impact of Climate Change on Agriculture in Cameroon Ernest L. Molua,Cornelius M. Lambi,2012 This study examines the impact of climate change on crop farming in Cameroon The country s economy is predominantly agrarian and agriculture and the exploitation of natural resources remain the driving force for the country s economic development Fluctuations in national income are due not merely to the decline in world demand for Cameroon s traditional agricultural exports or to mistakes in economic policy making but also to the vagaries of the weather Based on a farm level survey of more than 800 farms the study employs a Ricardian cross sectional approach to measure the relationship between climate and the net revenue from crops Net revenue is regressed on climate water flow soil and economic variables Further uniform scenarios assume that only one aspect of climate changes and the change is uniform across the whole country The analysis finds that net revenues fall as precipitation decreases or temperatures increase across all the surveyed farms The study reaffirms that agriculture in Cameroon is often limited by seasonality and the availability of moisture Although other physical factors such as soil and relief have an important influence on agriculture climate remains the dominant influence on the variety of crops cultivated and the types of agriculture practiced

Climate Change and Global Food Security Rattan Lal, Norman Uphoff, B.A. Stewart, David O. Hansen, 2005-05-26 In order to feed their burgeoning populations developing nations will need to double cereal production by the year 2050 This increase will have to come from existing land as little potential exists for bringing new land under cultivation a daunting prospect when one realizes that increased use and significantly higher concentrations of carbon

Measuring the Impact of Climate Change on Indian Agriculture Ariel Dinar, 1998-01-01 Using the Ricardian approach a cross sectional analysis of farm performance across different climate zones this report examines the impact of climate change on the agriculture sector and the sector's adaptation to that change Studies in the report measure the climate sensitivity of low capital agriculture test whether actual farm performance is as sensitive to climate as agronomic models predict and compare the climate sensitivity of low capital farms with the results already calibrated for U S agriculture The goal of the study is to examine farm behavior and test whether there is any evidence that farmers in developing countries currently adjust to their local climates
