Aids And Womens Reproductive Health:

AIDS and Women's Reproductive Health Lincoln C. Chen, Jaime Sepulveda Amor, Sheldon J. Segal, 2012-12-06 Over the past decade the AIDS pandemic has propagated so widely and exerted such a devastating impact that one may properly ask the question Why not concentrate all AIDS efforts on disease control alone Why link AIDS with women's reproductive health What is the scientific basis for this linkage And how might AIDS control and women's health objectives be promoted simultaneously These questions constitute the principal themes addressed in this monograph The 15 chapters in this volume are intended to provide state of the art reviews of key interactions between AIDS and women's reproductive health for an audience of scientists and policy makers in the AIDS and population fields Impetus for this monograph comes in part from what we perceive to be an inadequate global response thus far to AIDS and women's health problems A common platform has failed to emerge among the disparate professional communities working in the areas of AIDS STDs and family planning As a result endeavors in these fields have been isolated and opportunities for joint action have been missed An enormous and as yet unharnessed potential exists for powerful interdisciplinary collaborations that could strengthen policies and programs against these pressing health problems of humankind Mental Health Aspects of Women's Reproductive Health World Health Organization, 2009 This book has reviewed the research undertaken on a broad range of reproductive health issues and their mental health determinants consequences over the last 15 years from both high and low income countries Evidence from peer reviewed journals has been used wherever possible but has been augmented with results of a specific survey initiated to gather state of the art information on reproductive and mental health issues from a variety of researchers and interested parties Valuable data from consultant reports national programme evaluations and postgraduate research work was also compiled analyzed and synthesized The Global Gag Rule and Women's Reproductive Health Yana van der Meulen Rodgers, 2018 This book supports three important messages the global gag rule has failed to achieve its goal of reducing abortions there is no definitive relationship between restrictive national abortion laws and abortion rates and the 2017 expansion of the global gag rule will adversely affect a dashboard of health indicators Development and Women's Reproductive Health in Ghana, 1920-1982 Holly Ashford, 2022-12-09 This book investigates the history of women's reproductive health in Ghana arguing that between the 1920s and 1980s it was largely driven by discourses of development and population control rather than a concern for women's health or rights Between the 1920s and 1980s the choices that Ghanaian women made regarding their reproductive health were defined by development policy and practice Spanning the colonial and immediate postcolonial periods this book demonstrates that whilst the substance of development discourse shifted over time principles of development continued to be used to impact and legitimise reproductive health policy and practices well after independence The book explores Ghana's pluralist health system the introduction of maternal and child welfare the dominance of the Red Cross in Ghana's maternal and child health landscape nationalist pronatalism and global population activism In order to understand how global iterations of development and health policy impacted ordinary lives in Ghana the author uses evidence from multiple levels including private papers national archives and records of international and transnational organisations Providing balanced archival perspectives the book includes extensive oral history interviews carried out with both rural Ghanaian women and traditional birth attendants as well as with midwives doctors and family planning fieldworkers This book will have an important impact on a number of historical fields including Ghanaian history global health history global histories of population and family planning and histories of development It will be of interest to researchers and students in the history of public health development Africa Ghana and gender

Reproductive Health and Gender Equality Guang-zhen Wang, 2016-04-08 Since the late 1990s approaches to women's reproductive health has shifted from a service based model to a human rights approach This approach associates reproductive health with freedom from discrimination and enjoyment of a satisfying and safe sex life and full access to information and services related to reproduction In spite of this shift and the global effort to promote women's reproductive health through the enhancement of human rights and gender equality progress has been very slow In this book the author fills a much needed empirical study of women's reproductive health The author assesses data from 137 developing countries or areas and challenges the prevailing bioscience and public health models by linking women's reproductive health to gender equality measures and development policies Discussion on abortion rights regional variations and reproductive health needs among refugees and internally displaced persons are also discussed This is a timely study which provides a theoretical and social policy basis for monitoring and improving women's reproductive health in developing countries This is particularly important in the light of insufficient research in the field and a lack of analysis on the empirical and theoretical linkages between reproductive health and gender equality The book will be of interest to researchers professionals and students interested in women's health issues gender women's studies and human rights

Consolidated Guideline on Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights of Women Living with HIV World Health Organization,2017-02-20 he starting point for this guideline is the point at which a woman has learnt that she is living with HIV and it therefore covers key issues for providing comprehensive sexual and reproductive health and rights related services and support for women living with HIV As women living with HIV face unique challenges and human rights violations related to their sexuality and reproduction within their families and communities as well as from the health care institutions where they seek care particular emphasis is placed on the creation of an enabling environment to support more effective health interventions and better health outcomes This guideline is meant to help countries to more effectively and efficiently plan develop and monitor programmes and services that promote gender equality and human rights and hence are more acceptable and appropriate for women living with HIV taking into account the national and local epidemiological context It discusses implementation issues that health interventions and service delivery must address to achieve gender equality and support human rights Handbook of Women's Sexual and Reproductive Health Gina M. Wingood,Ralph J. DiClemente,2013-11-11 This volume is designed to motivate and engage scientists policymakers and practitioners to greater scientific discourse reduce the stigma on and validate the importance of women s sexual and reproductive health It brings together historians anthropologists psychologists sociologists epidemiologists public health researchers genetic counselors attorneys social workers nurses and physicians and presents comprehensive coverage that will benefit women s health advocates students and practitioners Women's sexual and reproductive health and rights in Europe Council of Europe, Progress needed to ensure women s sexual and reproductive health and rights in Europe Despite considerable progress women in Europe continue to face widespread denials and infringements of their sexual and reproductive health and rights Laws policies and practices still curtail and undermine women s sexual and reproductive health autonomy dignity and decision making and pervasive gender inequality continues to have profound effects on their sexual and reproductive health and rights Moreover in recent years resurgent threats to these rights have emerged jeopardising longstanding commitments to gender equality and women s rights This Issue Paper addresses these concerns against the backdrop of the human rights obligations of Council of Europe member states as enshrined in international and European human rights instruments and as elaborated and interpreted by human rights mechanisms It provides an overview of states obligations in the field of women s sexual and reproductive health and rights with a particular focus on comprehensive sexuality education modern contraception safe and legal abortion care and quality maternal health care New Insights into HIV/AIDS for Students and

Healthcare Professionals Esther Olufunmilayo Asekun-Olarinmoye, Olutayo Christopher Alebiosu, 2019-01-24 Since the first case of HIV was diagnosed in 1981 several efforts have gone into its prevention and control However it remains a leading scourge today with no cure despite the international attention and publicity it receives It is one of the few diseases specifically given attention in the Millennium Development Goals MDG and the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs There has been inadequate effort by academia in developing countries towards contributing to in depth knowledge of HIV as well as stimulating the interest of students in the topic As the search for a cure continues this book is timely discussing the changing epidemiology of HIV The contributors are not only academicians but also seasoned programmers who are working in the realm of HIV care

Women's Reproductive and Sexual Health Kristina S. Brown, 2025-03-18 This book offers a groundbreaking exploration of women's health through a feminist lens challenging the status quo for both clinicians and medical providers highlighting the critical need for a more inclusive and empathetic approach to clinical practice and mental health research Addressing a spectrum of health concerns from prevalent issues such as heart disease cancer and stroke as leading causes of death for women to conditions uniquely affecting biological women such as pregnancy menopause miscarriage abortion polycystic ovary syndrome and endometriosis the chapters in this volume examine how these challenges intersect with gendered experiences It critically assesses the gaps in current healthcare practices including the often overlooked impact on couples and families and exposes the disparities faced by transgender women non binary and gender non conforming individuals By incorporating the latest literature and research on reproductive and sexual health this volume challenges traditional paradigms and gives voice to experiences that are often silenced This book will serve as a crucial resource for students clinicians researchers and advocates committed to advancing women's health through a more equitable and intersectional framework The chapters in this book were originally published in the Journal of Feminist Family Therapy
