

THE EPIDEMIC BY THE NUMBERS

54 yrs old

BLACK WOMEN are more likely to contract HIV than white women and latinas.

African Americans have a high HIV prevalence rate, and often tend to date within their own race/ethnic communities, which means they are at greater risk for HIV.

African Americans
POVERTY RATE

higher than for any other race. The socioeconomic issues associated with poverty -- limited access to high-quality health care, housing, HIV prevention education -- directly and indirectly increase risk for HIV infection, and alter the path of most people living with HIV.

African Americans experience higher rates of other sexually transmitted infections (STIs). When you have another STI, it is often easier to become infected with HIV.

Lack of awareness of HIV status -- major barrier -- affects HIV rates in the African American community. Lack of awareness of status can lead to late diagnoses and a concurrent AIDS diagnosis.

Rather than seeking counseling and testing, many hide their high-risk behavior due to fear of stigma more than fear of infection.
