Medicine (U.S.), 1990 Genes, Behavior, and the Social Environment Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Sciences Policy, Committee on Assessing Interactions Among Social, Behavioral, and Genetic Factors in Health, 2006-12-07 Over the past century we have made great strides in reducing rates of disease and enhancing people's general health Public health measures such as sanitation improved hygiene and vaccines reduced hazards in the workplace new drugs and clinical procedures and more recently a growing understanding of the human genome have each played a role in extending the duration and raising the quality of human life But research conducted over the past few decades shows us that this progress much of which was based on investigating one causative factor at a time often through a single discipline or by a narrow range of practitioners can only go so far Genes Behavior and the Social Environment examines a number of well described gene environment interactions reviews the state of the science in researching such interactions and recommends priorities not only for research itself but also for its workforce resource and infrastructural needs

The Berlin Aging Study Paul B. Baltes, Karl Ulrich Mayer, 2001-03-19 The present and future of our society are shaped by an ever increasing proportion of old and very old people The Berlin Aging Study is one of the largest interdisciplinary efforts to explore old age and aging Unique aspects of the Berlin Aging Study are the spectrum of scientific disciplines involved the range of discipline specific and interdisciplinary research topics the focus on very old age 70 to over 100 years and the empirical reference to a representative heterogeneous urban population The study's first cross sectional findings on intellectual abilities self and personality social relationships physical health functional capacity medical treatment mental disorders such as depression and dementia socioeconomic conditions activities everyday competence subjective well being and gender differences are reported in depth in this book The study was carried out in the context of the Berlin Brandenburg Academy of Sciences study group on Aging and Social Development The authors primarily conduct their research at the Berlin Max Planck Institute for Human Development the Free University of Berlin and the Humboldt University Berlin

Age, Work and Social Security Martin Rein, 2016-07-27 One of the most important changes in industrialised societies is the trend to early retirement This volume is concerned with early exit from employment the well being of the early retired and the policy issues raised The topics include trends in the health of the elderly disability insurance pension policy gender disparities minimum standards in old age and the harmonisation of pension schemes The volume is cross country in its coverage and cross disciplinary in its approach

Gender & Aging Lou Glasse, Jon Hendricks, 1992 Is there something about our gender that alters the way the aging process unfolds How does being male or female affect us as we grow older How important is gender to the study of aging These and similar questions are what Gender and Aging is all about Sixteen essays written by scholars and practitioners who know their way around gerontology attempt to spell out how gender is ever present in the aging process tackle the question of the effects of gender on men and women and ask how gender plays itself out in the way people grow old

Family Caregiving Across the Lifespan Center for Practice Innovations, Mandel School of Applied Social Sciences (Case Western Reserve University), 1994-03-16 Examining caregiving issues from a multigenerational family life cycle perspective this volume deals with the broad spectrum of chronic illnesses that necessitate family caregiving throughout the lifespan and discusses responses to these challenges by both caregiving families and caregiving systems Part One addresses the caregiving paradigm and the relationship of family caregiving research to family life studies Part Two examines conceptual aspects of caregiving ranging from the expansion of the caregiving paradigm caregiving processes and tasks to the positive aspects of caregiving Part Three emphasizes how family caregivers are affected by the connection or lack of it to macro level systems
