The Million Heir Bettye Knapp, 1950 This is the story of Jonny Burke and Johnny s quite a guy He s attractive in both looks and personality but his wallet s flat as a pancake Being in love with the gorgeous Carol doesn t help when it s the things money can buy that Carol likes most Johnny s on his uppers actually that is and to add to his woe he loses his job just as Carol is lured away by George Drexel s new convertible and seemingly bulging pockets Things couldn t look blacker and were it not for Agnes Mallory the landlady s sweet young daughter no doubt Johnny would go jump in a lake But as the old story goes there's always a silver lining In Johnny's case it's gold He receives notice of the death of a distant relative one he never knew existed stating he being her sole heir will inherit a million dollars But there's a catch His benefactor was a lover of cats and unless he can care for her eight prize felines and keep them in the best of health for one month the entire fortune goes to charity More trouble Johnny is allergic to fur Johnny's story makes front page headlines and resultantly the telephone brings forth strange requests and the doorbell strange people But it all adds to the excitement of life in Mrs Mallory's rooming house Carol seeing the headlines rushes right back to solidify herself as Johnny's No 1 heart interest Of course she was dating George merely to make Johnny jealous An old worn out line She's crazy The cats arrive and Johnny suffers along with his allergy and the resultant sleepless nights This just can't go on not for a million dollars Just as the fortune seems headed for charitable causes the patience of Agnes in helping Johnny through his ordeal spurs on his interest By the time the month is up the cats have found an admirer in Johnny and he wouldn't part with them It's easy to part with Carol though for she's proven herself a selfish calculating little blonde while Agnes has come through as the champion Johnny gets the right girl a million complete happiness for all concerned
