Drivers of youth engagement in agriculture: Insights from Guatemala, Niger, Nigeria, Rwanda, and Uganda Babu, Suresh Chandra, Franzel, Steven, Davis, Kristin E., Srivastava, Nandita, 2021-03-31

Engaging burgeoning youth populations in developing country agriculture is seen as an important strategy toward effective efficient and sustainable food system transformation Yet the policy institutional technological and capability barriers and ways to overcome them for successful participation of youth in agriculture are not fully understood We use a conceptual framework that identifies key pathways to prosperity for youth and classifies contextual and driving factors that contribute to the success of youth engagement in agriculture The framework comprises four broad categories of strategic interventions policy and socioeconomic environment institutional technological business infrastructure and individual skills and capacities In the context of this framework we then present insights from cases of youth participation in agriculture in five countries Guatemala Niger Nigeria Rwanda and Uganda The countries and cases were purposively selected as part of ongoing research on youth engagement in agriculture Policies and strategies play an important role in creating an enabling environment for youth engagement in agriculture including by fostering transparency and accountability in the policy system and promoting youth engagement in the private sector through agricultural extension and other services Institutions and intermediaries provide financial support training and access to market for youth entrepreneurs Support in these areas should be strengthened Systems approaches such as multi stakeholder platforms provide holistic support to young agripreneurs entrepreneurs in agriculture but require effective coordination Similarly information and communication technologies can play a facilitating role by providing platforms to network and receive updated market information but need to be significantly scaled up Individual capacities can drive youth engagement in agriculture and agripreneurship but must continue to be built up through expanded education and training on technical and functional skills As policymakers and program managers search for interventions that can promote youth involvement in agriculture in their own countries the insights from the five countries examined that are presented in this paper may be useful for identifying context specific challenges and pathways to successful youth engagement in agriculture in their own countries The framework presented here can be applied to study youth engagement issues in any country or in sub national decentralized contexts to generate evidence to guide the design of youth in agriculture development programs

There is a need to support strengthen and implement the driving factors identified in this paper for expanding youth engagement in agriculture Business Technology Iii' 2005 Ed. , Agripreneurship and the Dynamic Agribusiness Value Chain Lukman Raimi,Olawale Paul Olatidoye,Thuraya Farhana Hj Said,2024-11-22 This book provides an insightful exploration of agribusiness entrepreneurship in the dynamic landscape of the global economy Targeted at agribusiness researchers agricultural scientists finance professionals and consultants the thematic focus encompasses agricultural and business entrepreneurship production and consumption dynamics ethical considerations impact investments and disruptive technologies such as Bitcoin digital ventures cryptocurrency and blockchain Addressing the principles governing innovative business models the text delves into the multifaceted realm of entrepreneurship in agriculture with a specific emphasis on Sustainable Development Goals SDGs and the integration of science technology engineering and mathematics STEM in agribusiness The book underscores the pivotal role of agripreneurs in driving agricultural activities employing mechanization irrigation and modern farming technologies to augment production It navigates the complexities of rural entrepreneurial activity considering factors like location natural resources social capital and information technologies Furthermore the book investigates the necessity for an entrepreneurial culture in agriculture citing its potential to alleviate challenges create employment opportunities curb rural to urban migration and enhance national income Through a pragmatic lens it explores the educational processes required for farmers to develop entrepreneurial and organizational skills emphasizing the significance of such skills in fostering sustainable development A comprehensive examination of entrepreneurship in agriculture this book stands as an indispensable resource for those seeking a nuanced understanding of agribusiness dynamics the integration of innovative technologies and the role of entrepreneurship in shaping the future of agriculture

able to reap comparable benefits from adopting agricultural information systems as compared to their counterparts in the developed economies Understanding the challenges that hinder the effective adoption of agricultural information systems and identifying opportunities or innovations is imperative to improve the agricultural sectors and overcome the problems in these developing economies Opportunities and Strategic Use of Agribusiness Information Systems is an essential reference book that examines the key challenges that hinder the effective adoption of agricultural information systems Moreover it identifies and evaluates opportunities for the strategic deployment of ICTs and information systems to drive agricultural development for the benefit of agricultural sector stakeholders in emerging countries While highlighting such topics as agricultural entrepreneurship food value chain and innovation systems it is intended to provide sound and relevant frameworks and tools that will aid agricultural industry practitioners smallholder farmers and managers of agricultural extension systems looking to make more effective and responsible decisions when selecting planning deploying and managing agribusiness information systems It is additionally targeted for agricultural funding organizations government policymakers academicians researchers and students concerned with exploiting the potential of a variety of ICTs and information systems in the quest to achieve food security and poverty reduction in emerging economies Agribusiness Innovation and Contextual Evolution, Volume I Antonino Galati, Mariantonietta Fiore, Alkis Thrassou, Demetris Vrontis, 2024-05-15 Agriculture is the oldest and most traditional of economic sectors and its business has seen major evolutionary leaps over the past century Contemporary agribusiness is being influenced and reshaped by technological advancements geopolitical developments globalisation transport and logistics innovations as well as changes in industry structure and consumer behaviour Reflecting on these changes and providing a deep dive into this sector this two volume scientific works collection defines refines analyses and prescribes the evolution of agribusiness in the present and future Taken together the books offer a comprehensive conceptualisation of the multifactorial macro micro and organisational elements of agribusiness including strategic managerial marketing technological and geo socio political forces Volume I explores the strategic managerial and marketing aspects of contemporary agribusiness and descriptively and prescriptively investigates the organisational and immediate industry practices and sectoral forces Topics covered include circular business models CSR communication practices digital marketing organisational sustainability and contemporary farming systems to name a few Agribusiness Supply Chain Management N. Chandrasekaran, G. Raghuram, 2014-03-24 The agribusiness supply chain includes a number of processes such as supply management production management and demand management to customers through a competitive distribution channel Each step of the way can be plagued with issues such as diversity of production and demand bulkiness of produce perishability and seasonality Highlighting the complexity and importance of supply chain management within businesses handling agricultural products Agribusiness Supply Chain Management addresses issues that help readers systematically approach decision making in the agribusiness sector The book covers issues across various spectrums of business and government's role in the agribusiness supply chain domain. It focuses on actors in supply chains, intrinsic issues that would impact the actors, and then the support systems that are essential to make the supply chain achieve its effectiveness. The authors' clear, well-structured treatment provides a logical approach to key activities of agribusiness supply chain management. They provide numerous case studies that span a wide range of issues and industries that readers can use to sharpen managerial decision-making skills. In today's world, companies compete on supply chains. With the many factors that can cause delays in deliverability, a well-designed supply chain is a must. Those who have the capability to establish a distinctive supply chain and create it as a strategic asset are leaders in their business and, in fact, emerge as the best in class across industries and markets. This book helps readers develop best practices for making key marketing decisions and designing efficient and effective supply chains that meet global challenges.

Agribusiness Wesley John Obst, Wayne W. Binney, Graham Christie, Rob Graham, 1999. Presents an approach to the financial management of agribusiness enterprises that can be used to assist with the financial decision-making for these businesses. Practical techniques are discussed in depth to provide the knowledge and skills necessary to complete a business plan for any agribusiness. From an agribusiness perspective, the book covers information management, assessment of business profitability and equity, cash flow management, tax and estate planning, financial analysis, enterprise development and evaluation, finance management, and the preparation of a business plan.

Agricultural Research for Sustainable Food Systems in Sri Lanka Ranjith Premalal De Silva, Gamini Pushpakumara, Pahan Prasada, Jeevika Weerahewa, 2020-10-06. Food systems involve a range of activities concerning food production, processing, distribution, marketing, and trade, preparation, consumption, and disposal. They encompass the path of food from the farm to the dinner table, meeting the food and nutritional needs of a nation. When such systems do so without sacrificing the needs of future generations, they are referred to as Sustainable Food Systems. The natural and physical environment, infrastructure, institutions, society, and culture, and policies and regulations within which they operate, as well as the technologies they adopt, shape these systems' outcomes. Making food systems more sustainable is a key priority for all nations, and Sri Lanka is no exception. Food systems deliver optimal performance when the policy and regulatory environment is conducive, institutions are supportive, and a combination of agricultural research, investments, and an efficient extension system generates the technologies and scientific evidence required for sound policymaking and agenda setting. Further agricultural research can generate essential findings, technologies, and policies for sustainable agricultural development across disciplines, sectors, and stakeholder groups. This book shares valuable insights into research conducted in the broad food and agriculture sectors in Sri Lanka. It also discusses the status quo in related disciplines and outlines future research directions. Accordingly, it offers a valuable source of reference material for researchers, students, and stakeholders in the food and agriculture sectors while also highlighting the types of support that policymakers and other decision makers can provide.
